Glazed America Paul R. Mullins,2008-09-07 Everybody loves a good doughnut The magic combination of soft dough hot oil and sugar coating with or without sprinkles inspires a wide range of surprisingly powerful memories and cravings Yet we are embarrassed by our desire the favorite food of Homer Simpson caricatured as the dietary cornerstone of cops a symbol of our collective descent into obesity doughnuts are in the words of one California consumer a food of shame Paul Mullins turns his attention to the simple doughnut in order to learn more about North American culture and society Both a breakfast staple and a snack to eat any time of day or night doughnuts cross lines of gender class and race like no other food item Favorite doughnut shops that were once neighborhood institutions remain unchanged even as their surrounding neighborhoods have morphed into strip clubs empty lots and abandoned housing Blending solid scholarship with humorous insights Mullins offers a look into doughnut production marketing and consumption He confronts head on the question of why we often paint doughnuts in moral terms and shows how the seemingly simple food reveals deep and complex social conflicts over body image and class structure In Mullins s skillful hands this simple pastry provides surprisingly compelling insights into our eating habits our identity and modern consumer culture
