much surplus weaponry work on the handgun could have ceased instead a new developmental phase was begun by the nations that had emerged from the crumbling Imperial empires During World War II the efficiency of well established designs was confirmed and new designs such as the Walther P 38 showed their potential The emergence of the submachine gun in 1945 reduced the status of the handgun but only temporarily The need for efficient self defense shows no signs of lessening and the rise in shooting for sport particularly with the revolver has sharpened the quest for efficiency The never ending search for advanced production techniques shows that the handgun has as much a future in the twenty first century as it had in the heyday of the Wild West or in the trenches of Passchendaele
