generation whale watching has been subject to global industrial development. It has been portrayed by destinations and business operators and advocated by environmental groups as a sustainable activity and an alternative to whaling. However, in recent years the sustainability of these activities has increasingly been questioned as research shows that repeated disturbance by boat traffic can severely disrupt critical behaviours of cetaceans in the wild. Bringing together contributions by international experts, this volume addresses complex issues associated with commercial whale watching, sustainable development and conservation of the global marine environment. It highlights widely expressed concerns for the failure of policy planning and management and pinpoints both long standing and emerging barriers to sustainable practice. Featuring numerous case studies, the book provides critical insights into the diverse socio-cultural, political, economic and ecological contexts of this global industry, highlighting the challenges and opportunities that arise along the pathways to sustainability.

Neoliberal Cities Andrew J. Diamond, Thomas J. Sugrue, 2020-08-25. Traces decades of troubled attempts to find private answers to public urban problems. The American city has long been a laboratory for austerity, governmental decentralization and market based solutions to urgent public problems such as affordable housing, criminal justice and education. Through richly told case studies from Boston, Chicago, Cleveland, Los Angeles, New Orleans and New York, Neoliberal Cities provides the necessary context to understand the always intensifying racial and economic inequality in and around the city center. In this original collection of essays, urban historians and sociologists trace the role that public policies have played in reshaping cities, with particular attention to labor, the privatization of public services, the collapse of welfare, the rise of gentrification, the expansion of the carceral state and the politics of community control. In so doing, Neoliberal Cities offers a bottom up approach to social scientific, theoretical and historical accounts of urban America, exploring the ways that activists and grassroots organizations as well as ordinary citizens came to terms with new market oriented public policies promoted by multinational corporations, financial institutions and political parties. Neoliberal Cities offers new scaffolding for urban and metropolitan change, with attention to the interaction between policymaking, city planning, social movements and the market.

Travel Journalism and Travel Media Ben Cocking, 2020-06-08. This book charts the trajectory of travel journalism from its print based origins to the emergence of hybridised multi platform content. It considers how this has led to not only different kinds of travel journalism but different kinds of travel journalists: the professional travel journalist is now challenged online by user generated content. Cocking focuses on the conventions and news values of British print based travel journalism, examining the genre's liminal position between truth and fiction. In the context of the expansion of global tourism, Cocking explores how travel journalism from different parts of the world negotiates cultural differences in its depictions of destinations, regions and tourist practices. Consideration is also given to the political potential of travel journalism and its capacity for awareness raising. Based on original research including qualitative analysis of print based articles and blogs, this book offers an innovative and original contribution to this emerging field of
