state development policies and community negotiations and as framed by modernity's new global cultural economy. As more people travel for pleasure than ever before, host communities and intermediaries are presented with tourism opportunities that all too often become flashpoints for local contestation and mechanisms for displacement. The ethnographically grounded chapters describe tourist encounters shaped by geopolitics complicated by war and troubled by and enacted within the economic inequities of neocolonialism. The points of contact afford a unique vantage from which to view cultural identity, entrepreneurial strategizing and natural resource management as global politics and relations of difference. They also illustrate the power of social networks, cultural display and artistic performance as collective presentation management apparatus and structural critique. Drawing on a range of international case studies, this book will appeal to those interested in tourism anthropology, global studies, environmental issues, microeconomics and identity studies.

The Hospitality and Tourism Industry in China Jinlin Zhao, 2018-06-27 Here is an insightful look into the great changes in the hospitality and tourism industry in China in recent years. The steady growth of the GDP in China, the increasing middle income population, lifestyle changes of the Chinese people and fast infrastructure development (speed trains, airports, highways and seaports) linking many mega cities, mid level cities and townships have all had a significant effect on the Chinese hospitality industry which is booming in China. With much more money in their pockets, the Chinese are spending more than 60% of their disposable income on food and travel. International food and hotel chains have responded by increasing their presence in China and in turn new domestic restaurant and hotel chains have sprung up to compete for the business. With chapters by scholars from various universities in China and the United States, these issues and more are covered in this new volume. Readers will gain a true understanding of the current development of Chinese hospitality and tourism industry.

Marine Tourism, Climate Change, and Resiliency in the Caribbean, Volume I Kreg Ettenger, Samantha Hogenson, 2017-05-23 As the nations of the Caribbean respond to and prepare for climate change, tourism has the potential to both worsen and mitigate these effects. In this book, we look at marine tourism and its connection with ocean health, fisheries and critical ecosystems including coral reefs. We consider the role that marine protected areas can play in preserving reefs and other ecosystems leading to greater resilience in the face of climate change. Finally, we look at how the tourism industry is responding to the threat of climate change using its economic and social capital to foster positive change in the Caribbean and other parts of the world. While the situation is clearly urgent, we hope this volume provides readers with some optimism as well as tangible ideas for using tourism to help mitigate the impending effects of climate change on marine ecosystems and economies.
