Write an essay stating your opinion on whether a person must acquire material possessions to be happy.

Many people attach themselves to "things" and then when those things are lost or are taken away – they are miserable. A person does not need to acquire material possessions to be happy.
Having a loving family is more important than acquiring material possessions. Imagine being able to attain every material thing imaginable, but having no one to enjoy the fun with each day. Being surrounded by people who support you and encourage you to be your best can even make you forget about the "things" that you don't have.
Often times people take being in good health for granted. Right now there are people in the cancer units and the burn units of hospitals around the country, wishing for better days. They would probably get rid of all of the material things they own just to be in better health.
Being surrounded by a loving family and having your health are far more important statuses in life than having a lot of material things that don't guarantee happiness. A person simply doesn't have to acquire material possessions to be happy.

The Testing Trap George Hillocks, 2002-04-12 Do statewide assessments really do what they are supposed to do Through interviews with over three hundred teachers and administrators Hillocks examines whether state writing tests in Illinois Kentucky Oregon New York and Texas actually improve students ability to express their thinking in writing Ultimately Hillocks argues that the majority of existing tests actually have a harmful effect on the way students are taught to write In addition to providing analyses of assessments that do not encourage good writing The Testing Trap contrasts them to those that do Concluding with practical procedures for examining and evaluating writing assessments this book is a provocative and essential read for administrators teachers policymakers parents and all who care about the education of our children

The Politics of Reclusion Kendall H. Brown, 1997-01-01 The Chinese themes of the Four Graybeards of Mt Shang and the Seven Sages of the Bamboo Grove figure prominently in the art of Momoyama period Japan ca 1575 1625 Kendall Brown proposes that the dense and multivalent implications of aesthetic reclusion central to these paintings made them appropriate for patrons of all classes the military who were presently in power the aristocracy who had lost power and the Buddhist priesthood who forsook power These paintings and their attendant messages thus serve as dynamic cultural agents that elucidate the fundamental paradigms of early modern Japanese society Unlike traditional art history studies which emphasize the style and history of art objects The Politics of Reclusion sets out to reconstruct the possible historical context for the interpretive reception and use of Chinese hermit themes within a specific period of Japanese art In emphasizing the political dimension of aesthetic reclusion it introduces into the field of Japanese art history a discussion of the politics of aesthetics that characterizes recent work in the field of Japanese literature By embedding the paintings within the contexts of politics philosophy religion and even gender this study restores the reflexive relations between the paintings and their culture and as such is one of the first extensive intellectual and social histories of Japanese art in a Western language It is one that will appeal not only to students of art but to those interested in Japanese literature history and
