

"When I was a little kid, I was playing in the woods and I came across two guys digging a hole. I remember seeing a bundle on the ground a few feet away. At the time, I didn't know what I was looking at, but now I believe it was Mary Claire's body and they were burying her."

In 1960s Santa Teresa, California, a child is kidnapped and never returned.

Twenty years later, Michael Sutton contacts private detective Kinsey Millhone for help. He claims to have recalled a strange and disturbing memory which just might provide the key to the mystery. He now believes he stumbled across the kidnappers burying Mary Claire Fitzhugh's body . . .

Michael's account is indistinct – he was only six years old at the time of the kidnapping – and even members of his family try to discredit his evidence. But Kinsey is certain there is something vital within Michael's recollections. And even when what is eventually unearthed isn't what anyone expected, she can't quite let go of the case.

As the protagonists of the tragedy are gradually brought to light, from Country Club parents to their free living, hippy children, the truth finally begins to emerge. And while stepping back into the past, Kinsey discovers more about her own history too . . .

"Kinsey Millhone is up there with the giants of the private eye genre, as magnetic as Marlowe, as innocuous as Spence. It's all exhilarating stuff."

*—Peter Dinklage, San Francisco

"Sue Grafton's mysteries are so consistently enjoyable you have to wonder what her secret is . . . one of the most confident writers in the field."
