This volume is the second part of a project which hosts an interdisciplinary discussion about the relationship among law and language, legal practice and ordinary conversation, legal philosophy and the linguistics sciences. The second part is focused on legal adjudication; it aims to construct a pragmatic apparatus appropriate to legal trial and or to test the tenure of the traditional pragmatics tools in the field. The authors face questions such as: Which interesting pragmatic features emerge from legal adjudication? What pragmatic theories are better suited to account for the practice of judgment or its particular aspects such as the testimony or the binding force of legal precedents? Which pragmatic and socio-linguistic problems are highlighted by this practice?
