Management Systems Robert A. Hamm, 1993 This report summarizes a literature review and interviews with many persons active nationally in congestion management Telephone contact was made with all the state departments of transportation and numerous local agencies metropolitan planning organizations and personal contacts throughout the country These telephone contacts helped define the status of congestion management as of late 1992 and early 1993 The literature review found very little information However the interview process revealed that significant material was being developed in the first half of 1993 Most of this CMS related work was in response to state legislation California and Washington local recognition of congestion issues Tucson and anticipation of the ISTEA requirements relative to the management system These interviews uncovered many documents that have been incorporated into this report On site interviews were conducted with twenty local agencies and five state departments of transportation The findings are summarized into specific recommendations on the measure of congestion definition of the CMS network monitoring the CMS network over time and administration of the CMS Program The report has several appendices which contain detailed information drawn from the site visits and other information which may be helpful to MPO s and state highway agencies The final chapter of the report includes specific recommendations for FHWA and FTA to consider in the implementation of the CMS Program at the Federal level The Royal Engineers Journal ,1909 Outdoor Lighting: Physics, Vision and Perception Duco

Schreuder,2008-08-15 The present book is based on the experience of the author The experience is mainly the result of years of research of consulting work and in participation in policy decision making in many fields most but not all related to outdoor lighting To some degree the book represents the preference of the author The selection of the subjects is based on more than 50 years of experience of what is desirable to know for persons engaged in scientific research or practical application in the fields of lighting and vision The subjects deal with a number of fundamental aspects The theorists must have them at their fingertips whereas the practical engineers may assume them as known in their daily work The selection of subjects is based in part by the questions that came to the author over the years but even more by the preference of the author himself In this respect it is a personal book Thus it should be stressed that the book is not a handbook or even a textbook many subjects that commonly are treated in such books are not included here Not because they lack importance but because the author feels that they are adequately treated elsewhere Some relevant works are mentioned in the References Over the years the author has been engaged in giving courses on vision and lighting lately more in particular on Masterclasses on a post graduate or post doctorate level
