

Background information given:

Topic: Short-term trading, international accounting, short-term debt financing

Background:

Southampton plc has been negotiating a contract with a potential customer in Russia. Before the negotiation started, the Russian company requested that it should be allowed to make the statement of Southampton. These statements were included the costs of sending the technical staff to Russia. This is the first report under the company's new contract with a new customer. The previous contract under which the customer was trading started the first strategy was to concentrate on Russia in the UK.

The sales department has proposed the following statement showing that the contract will make a profit. It is required for the sales department to provide the statement in English to be implemented in the first of 2000.

Obviously the management accountant will also be asked to comment on the statement prepared by the sales department. As this order is different and may need to be for other reasons, it is likely that other managers within the management accountants to comment on the statement below.

Statement prepared by sales department

Costs including Russia at 200,000 (per order)	200,000
Labour (per order at)	20,000
Overhead (per order at)	20,000
Foreign exchange (per order at)	20,000
Administrative charges (per order at)	20,000
Materials (per order at)	20,000
Depreciation on machinery (per order at)	20,000
Total	300,000

After the completion of management accountants prepared a full report. The costs given are summarized below:

Summary from management accountants

Point 1: This report will be found to be incorrect.

Point 2: This report will include 200,000 at least the costs that have already been incurred. This is the cost of sending engineers to Russia to help with the negotiations.

Point 3: This is 200,000 of the cost of the statement. It is suggested that the management will spend about 200,000 on the contract. This cost will be included in 200,000 because the management of the contract is completed on time.
