The NHS Ellen Welch, 2021-01-13 A history of Britain's healthcare system from the Victorian era to the post World War II beginnings of the NHS to the Coronavirus pandemic The Coronavirus pandemic in 2020 has changed life as we know it and thrust the NHS into the spotlight A nation in lockdown has adorned windows with rainbows and stepped onto doorsteps every Thursday to celebrate the people who are risking their lives by turning up to work But as the grim reports of deaths from the disease cumulate along with stories of insufficient protective equipment for staff there is hope that the crisis will raise awareness and bring change to the way the

NHS and its people are treated At midnight on 5 July 1948 the National Health Service was born with the founding principal to be free at the point of use and based on clinical need rather than on a person s ability to pay Over seventy years since its formation these core principals still hold true but the world has changed Persistent underfunding has not kept pace with increased demand for healthcare leading to longer waiting times staffing shortages and low morale This book traces the history of our health service from Victorian healthcare and the early 20th century through a timeline of change to the current day comparing the problems and illnesses of 1948 to those we face today Politics and funding are demystified and the effects of the pandemic are discussed alongside personal stories from frontline staff and patients who have experienced our changing NHS Ellen s book takes us on an emotional journey through the history of our beloved NHS This should be compulsory reading for anyone who thinks the NHS is safe in the hands of anyone but the Labour Party Absolutely enthralling Books Monthly

How and Why Does Spatial-Hearing Ability Differ among Listeners? What Is the Role of Learning and Multisensory Interactions? Guillaume Andéol,Brian D. Simpson,Ewan A. Macpherson,2016-08-29 Spatial hearing ability has been found to vary widely across listeners A survey of the existing auditory space perception literature suggests that three main types of factors may account for this variability physical factors e g acoustical characteristics related to sound localization cues perceptual factors e g sensory cognitive processing perceptual learning multisensory interactions and methodological factors e g differences in stimulus presentation methods across studies However the extent to which these and perhaps other still unidentified factors actually contribute to the observed variability in spatial hearing across individuals with normal hearing or within special populations e g hearing impaired listeners remains largely unknown Likewise the role of perceptual learning and multisensory interactions in the emergence of a multimodal but unified representation of auditory space is still an active topic of research A better characterization and understanding of the determinants of inter individual variability in spatial hearing and of its relationship with perceptual learning and multisensory interactions would have numerous benefits In particular it would enhance the design of rehabilitative devices and of human machine interfaces involving auditory or multimodal space perception such as virtual auditory multimodal displays in aeronautics or navigational aids for the visually impaired For this Research Topic we have considered manuscripts that present new methods or review existing methods for the study of inter individual differences present new data or review existing data concerning acoustical features relevant for explaining inter individual differences in sound localization performance present new or review existing psychophysical or neurophysiological findings concerning spatial hearing and or auditory perceptual learning and or multisensory interactions in humans normal or impaired young or older listeners or other species discuss the influence of inter individual differences on the design and use of assistive listening devices rehabilitation or human machine interfaces involving spatial hearing or multimodal perception of space ergonomics

The Oil Palm R. H. V. Corley, P. B. H. Tinker, 2015-12-21 The oil palm is the world's most valuable oil crop. Its production has increased over the decades reaching 56 million tons in 2013 and it gives the highest yields per hectare of all oil crops. Remarkably oil palm has remained profitable through periods of low prices. Demand for palm oil is also expanding with the edible demand now complemented by added demand from biodiesel producers. The Oil Palm is the definitive reference work on this important crop. This fifth edition features new topics including the conversion of palm oil to biodiesel and discussions about the impacts of palm oil production on the environment and effects of climate change alongside comprehensively revised chapters with updated references throughout. The Oil Palm Fifth Edition will be useful to researchers, plantation and mill managers who wish to understand the science underlying recommended practices. It is an indispensable reference for agriculture students and all those working in the oil palm industry worldwide.
