History of English Literature, 1912 The Life and Times of Mary Musgrove Steven C Hahn, 2012-10-21 The story of Mary Musgrove 1700 1764 a Creek Indian English woman struggling for success in colonial society is an improbable one As a literate Christian entrepreneur and wife of an Anglican clergyman Mary was one of a small number of mixed blood Indians to achieve a position of prominence among English colonists Born to a Creek mother and an English father Mary's bicultural heritage prepared her for an eventful adulthood spent in the rough and tumble world of Colonial Georgia Indian affairs Active in diplomacy trade and politics affairs typically dominated by men Mary worked as an interpreter between the Creek Indians and the colonists although some argue that she did so for her own gains altering translations to sway transactions in her favor Widowed twice in the prime of her life Mary and her successive husbands claimed vast tracts of land in Georgia illegally as British officials would have it by virtue of her Indian heritage thereby souring her relationship with the colony's governing officials and severely straining the colony's relationship with the Creek Indians Using Mary's life as a narrative thread Steven Hahn explores the connected histories of the Creek Indians and the colonies of South Carolina and Georgia He demonstrates how the fluidity of race and gender relations on the southern frontier eventually succumbed to more rigid hierarchies that supported the region's emerging plantation system

The Life of Michelangelo Hellmut Wohl, 1999 Preferences in Art, Life, and Literature Harry Quilter, 1892 The Life and Work of Percy Aldridge Grainger Teresa R. Balough, 2023-06-08 What goes into the making of a creative genius and how can their gifts be used to help uplift humankind These were questions that led the Australian American pianist composer and music educator Percy Aldridge Grainger 1882 1961 to exhaustively document his life his thoughts and his associations and establish in the country of his birth a museum dedicated to helping answer those questions Grainger was a creative genius who thought more in terms of the future than of the present and was an advocate for the role that music can play in creating a more harmonious and loving future for humankind This book is the first attempt to bring together in one volume the details of Grainger's life as they relate to his music using his own words and those of the people who knew him. It makes use of many heretofore unpublished documents and musical examples and is written in such a way as to be accessible to all while also offering a detailed study of his musical works. The Cambridge

History of English Literature: The end of the Middle Ages Sir Adolphus William Ward, Alfred Rayney Waller, 1912

Life, Emergent Yasmeen Arif, 2016-11-01 How does an inquiry into life as it lives or dies amid mass violence look like from the perspective of the social? Taking us from Sierra Leone to India to Lebanon, Life Emergent challenges conventional understandings of biopolitics, weaving a politics of life through the lens of life, not death. Arguing that the letting die element of biopolitics has been overemphasized, Yasmeen Arif zeros in on biopolitics' other pole, making live. She does so by highlighting the various means and the forms of life configured in the aftermath or afterlives of violent events in contexts of law, justice, community, and identity. Her analysis of the social repercussions is both global and local in scope. Arif examines the convictions made in the Special Court of Sierra Leone, the first hybrid court of its nature under international criminal law. Next, she explores the making of a justice movement in the context of Hindu-Muslim violence in 2002 in the state of Gujarat, India. From there, she revisits the Sikh carnage in Delhi of 1984. Finally, she explores a span of civil violence in Lebanon and particularly its effects on the city of Beirut. This rigorously argued book brings together the various strands of life and the social that each chapter has disentangled, and in doing so, it begins to frame a politics of and in life. One Soul We Divided Michael Field, Katharine Harris Bradley, Edith Emma Cooper, 2024-01-09 The first book-length selection from the extraordinary unpublished diary of the late Victorian writer Michael Field, the pen name of two female coauthors and romantic partners. Michael Field was known to late Victorian readers as a superb poet and playwright until Robert Browning let slip Field's secret identity. In fact, Michael Field was a pseudonym for Katharine Bradley (1846-1914) and Edith Cooper (1862-1913), who were lovers, a devoted couple, and aunt and niece. For thirty years, they kept a joint diary titled Works and Days that eventually reached almost 10,000 pages. One Soul We Divided is the first critical edition of selections from this remarkable unpublished work. A fascinating personal and literary experiment, the diary tells the extraordinary story of the love, art, ambitions, and domestic life of a queer couple in fin de siècle London. It also tells vivid firsthand stories of the literary and artistic worlds Bradley and Cooper inhabited and of their encounters with such celebrities as Browning, Oscar Wilde, W. B. Yeats, Aubrey Beardsley, and Bernard Berenson. Carolyn Dever provides essential context, including explanatory notes, a cast of characters, a family tree, and a timeline. An unforgettable portrait of two writers and their unexpected romantic, literary, and artistic marriage, One Soul We Divided rewrites what we think we know about Victorian women, intimacy, and sexuality.
