

Use "Don't Be So Fast to Judge a Cat by Its Color" to answer questions 1–4.

1. Read the dictionary entry below.

post /pɒst/ verb

1. to display in a public place
2. to publish on the Internet
3. to ride up and down with the movement of a horse
4. to mark an envelope for mailing

Which definition best fits the way the word post is used in paragraph 9?

- A. Definition 1
 - B. Definition 2
 - C. Definition 3
 - D. Definition 4
2. Based on the selection, the reader can conclude that there is little actual evidence that cat color—
- A. determines how friendly or affectionate a cat is.
 - B. has no impact on whether a cat is adopted or not.
 - C. can predict which cats get adopted and which do not.
 - D. has any effect on cat personality.
3. What is the best summary of this selection?
- A. Many people believe a cat's personality is tied to its color. Orange cats are considered the most friendly. White, black, and multi-colored cats are more likely to be judged as trouble-makers. Researchers want to learn more about how a cat's color affects whether or not it will be adopted.
 - B. The Berkeley East Bay Humane Society is determined to help people understand that cat color has nothing to do with cat personality. People who work at the shelter write descriptions of the cats' personalities and post the descriptions on the cats' cages so that all colors of cats have a greater chance of being adopted.
 - C. Millions of cats end up in shelters each year because their owners do not like their behavior. Dark cats are more likely to be euthanized than adopted. Many people believe that orange cats are more friendly than black or white cats.
 - D. At least a million cats end up in animal shelters yearly. Many people believe that a cat's color determines its personality. Researchers studied how people's opinions about cat color affected a cat's likelihood of being adopted. They found that people were less likely to adopt certain colors of cats. There is no actual evidence that cat color affects a cat's personality.
4. Which statement best explains why some cat owners give their pets to shelters?
- A. They believe the cat is too active.
 - B. They do not like the color of the cat.
 - C. They believe their cat is bad luck.
 - D. They believe a cat of a different color will be a better fit for their family.
