on the hill between Bursley and Hanbridge Mrs Carpole was the second Mrs Carpole and her husband was dead She had a stepson Horace and a son of her own Sidney Horace is the hero or the villain of the history On the day when the unfortunate affair began he was nineteen years old and a model youth Not only was he getting on in business not only did he give half his evenings to the study of the chemistry of pottery and the other half to various secretaryships in connection with the Wesleyan Methodist Chapel and Sunday school not only did he save money not only was he a comfort to his stepmother and a sort of uncle to Sidney not only was he an early riser a total abstainer a non smoker and a good listener but in addition to the practice of these manifold and rare virtues he found time even at that tender age to pay his tailor s bill promptly and to fold his trousers in the same crease every night so that he always looked neat and dignified Strange to say he made no friends Perhaps he was just a thought too perfect for a district like the Five Towns a sin or so might have endeared him to the entire neighbourhood Perhaps his loneliness was due to his imperfect sense of humour or perhaps to the dull unsmiling heaviness of his somewhat flat features

In the Five Towns the following history is related by those who know it as something side splittingly funny as one of the best jokes that ever occurred in a district devoted to jokes And I too have hitherto regarded it as such But upon my soul now that I come to write it down it strikes me as being after all a pretty grim tragedy However you shall judge and laugh or cry as you please It began in the little house of Mrs Carpole up at Bleakridge on the hill between Bursley and Hanbridge Mrs Carpole was the second Mrs Carpole and her husband was dead She had a stepson Horace and a son of her own Sidney Horace is the hero or the villain of the history On the day when the unfortunate affair began he was nineteen years old and a model youth Not only was he getting on in business not only did he give half his evenings to the study of the chemistry of pottery and the other half to various secretaryships in connection with the Wesleyan Methodist Chapel and Sunday school not only did he save money not only was he a comfort to his stepmother and a sort of uncle to Sidney not only was he an early riser a total abstainer a non smoker and a good listener but in addition to the practice of these manifold and rare virtues he found time even at that tender age to pay his tailor s bill promptly and to fold his trousers in the same crease every night so that he always looked neat and dignified Strange to say he made no friends Perhaps he was just a thought too perfect for a district like the Five Towns a sin or so might have endeared him to the entire neighbourhood Perhaps his loneliness was due to his imperfect sense of humour or perhaps to the dull unsmiling heaviness of his somewhat flat features Sidney was quite a different story Sidney to use his mother s phrase was a little jockey His years were then eight Fair haired and blue eyed as most little jockeys are he had a smile and a scowl that were equally effective in tyrannizing over both his mother and Horace and he was beloved by everybody Women turned to look at him in the street Unhappily his health was not good He was afflicted by a slight deafness which however the doctor said he would grow out of the doctor predicted for him a lusty manhood In the meantime he caught every disease that happened to be about and nearly died of each one His latest acquisition had been scarlet fever Now one afternoon after he had peeled and his room had been disinfected and he was beginning to walk again Horace came home and decided that Sidney should be brought downstairs for tea as a treat to celebrate his convalescence and that he Horace would carry him downstairs Mrs Carpole was delighted with the idea and Sidney also except that Sidney did not want to be carried downstairs he wanted to walk down I think it will be better for him to walk Horace dear said Mrs Carpole in her thin plaintive voice He can quite well And you know how clumsy you are Supposing you were to fall Horace nevertheless in pursuance of his programme of being uncle to Sidney was determined to carry Sidney And carry Sidney he did despite warnings and kickings At least he carried him as far as the turn in the steep stairs at which point he fell just as his stepmother had feared and Sidney with him The half brothers arrived on the ground floor in company but Horace with his eleven stone two was on top and the poor suffering little convalescent lay moveless and insensible It took the doctor forty minutes to bring him to and all the time the odour of grilled herrings which formed part of the uneaten tea made itself felt through the house like a Satanic comment on the spectacle of human life The scene was dreadful at first The agony then passed There were no bruises on the boy not a mark and in a couple of hours he seemed to be perfectly himself Horace breathed again and thanked Heaven it was no worse

Fair haired and blue eyed as most little jockeys are he had a smile and a scowl that were equally effective in tyrannizing over both his mother and Horace and he was beloved by everybody. Women turned to look at him in the street. Unhappily his health was not good. He was afflicted by a slight deafness which however the doctor said he would grow out of. The doctor predicted for him a lusty manhood. In the meantime he caught every disease that happened to be about and nearly died of each one. His latest acquisition had been scarlet fever. Now one afternoon after he had peeled and his room had been disinfected and he was beginning to walk again Horace came home and decided that Sidney should be brought downstairs for tea as a treat to celebrate his convalescence and that he Horace would carry him downstairs. Mrs. Carpole was delighted with the idea and Sidney also except that Sidney did not want to be carried downstairs he wanted to walk down.

The Grim Smile of the Five Towns

Arnold Bennett, 2013-02-17 People were talking to each other as they groped about in the road and either making jokes at the expense of the new Electricity Department or frankly cursing it with true Five Towns directness of speech. And as Mr. Blackshaw went down the hill into the town his heart was as black as the street itself with rage and disappointment. He had made his child cry.
