New Directions in Assessing Historical Thinking Kadriye Ercikan, Peter Seixas, 2015-02-20 New technologies have radically transformed our relationship to information in general and to little bits of information in particular The assessment of history learning which for a century has valued those little bits as the centerpiece of its practice now faces not only an unprecedented glut but a disconnect with what is valued in history education More complex processes historical thinking historical consciousness or historical sense making demand more complex assessments At the same time advances in scholarship on assessment open up new possibilities For this volume Kadriye Ercikan and Peter Seixas have assembled an international array of experts who have collectively moved the fields of history education and assessment forward Their various approaches negotiate the sometimes conflicting demands of theoretical sophistication empirically demonstrated validity and practical efficiency Key issues include articulating the cognitive goals of history education the relationship between content and procedural knowledge the impact of students language literacy on history assessments and methods of validation in both large scale and classroom assessments New Directions in Assessing Historical Thinking is a critical research oriented resource that will advance the conceptualization design and validation of the next generation of history assessments

Hater John Semley, 2018-10-23 A timely manifesto urging us to think critically form opinions and then argue them with gusto Hater begins from a simple premise that it's good to hate things Not people or groups or benign belief systems but things More to the point it's good to hate the things everyone seems to like Scan the click baiting headlines of your favorite news or pop culture website and you're likely to find that just about everything is supposedly what we need right now We are the victims of an unbridled unearned optimism And our world demands pessimism It's vital to be contrarian now as they say more than ever Because ours is an age of calcified consensus And we should all hate that In this scathing and funny rebuke of the status quo journalist John Semley illustrates that looking for and identifying nonsense isn't just a useful exercise for society it's also a lot of fun But Hater doesn't just skewer terrible TV shows and hit songs at its core it shows us how to meaningfully talk about and engage with culture and the world Ultimately Hater is what we actually need right now
