Startup Communities Brad Feld, 2020-06-26 First published in 2012 Startup Communities became a blueprint for what it takes to build a supportive entrepreneurial community Now regarded as a classic the Boulder Thesis created and popularized by Feld within the book generated enormous media attention nearly a decade ago At that time Boulder was an emerging startup laboratory a hub of innovation building new tech businesses It quickly accelerated into a world class ecosystem for entrepreneurs Boulder s entrepreneurial density combined with the geographic concentration of entrepreneurial activity around the Boulder downtown core made it a hotbed of startup activity Feld was and is still there as a keen observer and one of its leaders As he notes simply in the new edition humans are wired to start things In a sense that short Feld ism accurately describes the startup revolution still taking hold throughout the world Boulder is proof that innovation can happen anywhere in any city Thanks in part to the book what happens in Boulder now leaves Boulder Rapidly growing startup communities in Atlanta Detroit Denver Kansas City Nashville and Indianapolis are just a few examples Over the last decade Feld has dispelled the myth that startups can only thrive in Silicon Valley Startup communities continue to pop up across the U S and around the world prompting fresh new revelations and stories from Feld about what's happened over the last decade Startup Communities 2e describes what makes a startup community ecosystem first click then hum and in time excel From Boulder to Beijing and beyond entrepreneurial ecosystems are driving innovation Startup Communities 2e discusses and the necessary dynamics and pre conditions of building communities of entrepreneurs who can feed off each other's talent creativity and support In Startup Communities 2e Feld will help you understand The core principles of a vibrant startup community re examining his Boulder Thesis and exploring other historical frameworks The attributes of leadership in a startup community that can help it thrive along with the classical problems any community will face during development The importance of a university in a startup community and how large companies can engage effectively with entrepreneurs The importance of continuous improvement so growth does not stagnate The common myths about startup communities The opportunities to build startup communities in non urban or rural places that are much less populated

The Startup Community Way Brad Feld, Ian Hathaway, 2020-06-25 The Way Forward for Entrepreneurship Around the World We are in the midst of a startup revolution The growth and proliferation of innovation driven startup activity is profound unprecedented and global in scope Today it is understood that communities of support and knowledge sharing go along with other resources The importance of collaboration and a long term commitment has gained wider acceptance These principles are adopted in many startup communities throughout the world And yet much more work is needed Startup activity is highly concentrated in large cities Governments and other actors such as large corporations and universities are not collaborating with each other nor with entrepreneurs as well as they could Too often these actors try to control activity or impose their view from the top down rather than supporting an environment that is led from the bottom up We continue to see a disconnect between an entrepreneurial mindset and that of many actors who wish to engage with and support entrepreneurship There are structural reasons for this but we can overcome many of these obstacles with appropriate focus and sustained practice No one tells this story better than Brad Feld and Ian Hathaway The Startup Community Way Evolving an Entrepreneurial Ecosystem explores what makes startup communities thrive and how to improve collaboration in these rapidly evolving complex environments The Startup Community Way is an explanatory guide for startup communities Rooted in the theory of complex systems this book establishes the systemic properties of entrepreneurial ecosystems and explains why their complex nature leads people to make predictable mistakes As complex systems value creation occurs in startup communities primarily through the interaction of the parts the people organizations resources and conditions involved not the parts themselves This continual process of bottom up interactions unfolds naturally producing value in novel and unexpected ways Through these complex emergent processes the whole becomes greater and substantially different than what the parts alone could produce Because of this participants must take a fundamentally different approach than is common in much of our civic and professional lives Participants must take a whole system view rather than simply trying to optimize their individual part They must prioritize experimentation and learning over planning and execution Complex systems are uncertain and unpredictable They cannot be controlled only guided and influenced Each startup community is unique Replication is enticing but impossible The race to become The Next Silicon Valley is futile even Silicon Valley couldn't recreate itself This book Offers practical advice for entrepreneurs community builders government officials and other stakeholders who want to harness the power of entrepreneurship in their city Describes the core components of startup communities and entrepreneurial ecosystems as well as an explanation of the differences between these two related but distinct concepts Advances a new framework for effective startup community building based on the theory of complex systems and insights from systems thinking Includes contributions from leading entrepreneurial voices Is a must have resource for entrepreneurs venture capitalists executives business and community leaders economic development authorities policymakers university officials and anyone wishing to understand how startup communities work anywhere in the world
