

Harmonic Motion

Simple harmonic motion is any motion that is repetitive (doing the same thing over and over), and caused by a restoring force. Pendulums, bouncing springs, vibrating molecular molecules, waves, etc. are all harmonic motion.

Simple harmonic motion does not have any direction.

A ball thrown into the air moves upwards because the energy was put into it with force. Afterward, it is forced upwards by air pressure and momentum from different sets of particles.

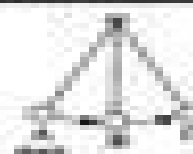

Remember there is a force that causes objects to oscillate (move back and forth). If a pendulum is stretched, pushed, pulled, pushed, then pulled it back to center. Because it has momentum, it goes past the center and then goes back and forth.

Parts of Harmonic Motion

Period—the complete duration of the motion, includes all of the steps of the motion.

Period—length of time for one cycle, time long it takes for one repetition.

Frequency—number of cycles per unit of time. If time is increased, frequency is decreased.

Period of 2 seconds

Frequency is the number of cycles completed per unit of time.

If it takes 2 seconds for the pendulum to go from A to B and back to A, the period is 2 seconds.

| The A oscillation has a frequency of 4 Hz. Find its period. |           |
|-------------------------------------------------------------|-----------|
| Find the                                                    | $T = 1/f$ |
| Find the                                                    | $f = 1/T$ |
| Find the                                                    | $T = 1/f$ |

| The A oscillation period is 2 seconds. Find its frequency. |           |
|------------------------------------------------------------|-----------|
| Find the                                                   | $f = 1/T$ |
| Find the                                                   | $T = 1/f$ |
| Find the                                                   | $f = 1/T$ |

Amplitude—the maximum distance or angle the oscillation moves to either position. For the wave and in distance (meters), it is indicated on the graph.

$\text{Amplitude} = \frac{1}{2}(\text{Height} - \text{Low})$

Graphing Harmonic Motion

The graph shows the motion of the oscillation.

Period—the complete duration of the motion, includes all of the steps of the motion, (T = 2).

Period—time for one cycle, time long it takes for one repetition.

Frequency—number of cycles per unit of time.

Amplitude—distance the graph goes away from the center line to the extremes.  $\text{Amplitude} = \frac{1}{2}(\text{Height} - \text{Low})$
