TomTom BRIDGE device features

The TomTom BRIDGE device uses the Android operating system. TomTom and the device owner have changed the operating system in the following ways:

- Certain Android features have been disabled, either by TomTom or by the device owner. This makes the device safer and easier to use while driving.
- Some new features and apps have been added, both by TomTom and by the device owner. These additions customize the device so it is relevant for the functions it will be used for.

The features and apps added by TomTom are as follows:

Important: For other TomTom BRIDGE device settings and operation, and for instructions about other apps on the device, please refer to the applicable User Documentation.

Apps on the TomTom BRIDGE device

The TomTom BRIDGE device is an Android device that has different apps installed on it. Some of the apps will be standard Android apps, for example a browser, a clock and a photo-gallery. On some devices, depending how they are configured, you might be able to add apps using Google Play Store. Specialized apps could be added by the device owner, and TomTom has also added apps.

Note: Some TomTom BRIDGE devices might be locked to prevent you adding your own apps.

You can find other apps on the device by scrolling right, then selecting All apps.

You can also add up to two app quick-launch buttons to the device's Navigation bar for apps you want to use often.
