Psychological Services for Law Enforcement James T. Reese, Harvey Alan Goldstein, 1986 Human Abilities Ian Dennis, Patrick Tapsfield, 2013-05-13 This volume brings together many of the leading researchers on human intelligence and cognition to address issues including definition measurement and instructional design Its publication is a result of the Inaugural Spearman Seminar recently held at the University of Plymouth a seminar that is slated to become a regularly scheduled event providing a major international forum for the presentation of work on human abilities To properly inaugurate this series scientific experts in this field were asked to reflect on various issues raised but not resolved in Charles Spearman's classic work The Abilities of Man Their Nature and Measurement published in 1927 As a result of this approach the book offers a unique overview of the way in which the study of human abilities has developed since 1927 and of current positions in the field It offers exhaustive discussions on the nature of cognitive abilities and intelligence a review of how the factor analytic approach to abilities which grew out of Spearman's work has developed thoughts regarding the contribution of a cross cultural perspective and an elucidation of some of the conceptual issues which often cloud discussions of ability different aspects of the contribution of cognitive psychology to our understanding of abilities the relationship between Spearman's g and working memory links between attention and cognitive style and the area of spatial abilities recent developments in latent variable and item response modeling and applied issues the argument that little predictive value can be gained in occupational selection from measuring abilities other than Spearman's g and the question of aptitude treatment interactions in education

Designing the Fitness Program John LeCuyer, 2001 Public safety work is dangerous and the link between fitness and remaining injury free has been well established by research Designing the Fitness Program examines the physical demands on public safety officers as well as an array of related health and safety issues In proposing that each public safety organization implements a fitness program for its personnel the author provides a variety of options for ensuring that the standards and test regimens adopted by a department are suitable both in terms of individual members and the roles that they fulfill His unique thought provoking analysis of test protocols will help organizations avoid many of the pitfalls associated with modern labour laws and declaring anyone whether rehabilitated member or new recruit fit for duty Contents Part I Analysis Identifying the problem Standards and legal aspects The labour management agreement Part II Design Fitness defined Basic design plan The design matrix Part III Development Staff and resources Test selection and development Developing the pilot study Part IV Implementation Conducting the pilot study Part V Education Standards and statistics Exercise recommendations and training Evaluating the program Part VI Supplemental programs Work injury management Wellness Physical performance Appendices

Personnel Selection and Classification Michael G. Rumsey, Clinton B. Walker, James H. Harris, 2013-05-13 Bringing together several key elements needed to identify the most promising themes for future research in selection and classification this book's underlying aim is to improve job performance by selecting the right persons and matching them most effectively with the right jobs An emphasis is placed on current innovative research approaches which in some cases depart substantially from traditional approaches The contributors consisting of professionals in measurement personnel research and applied and military psychology discuss where the quantum advances of the last decade should take us further Comprehensive coverage of the selection and classification domain is provided including a broad range of topics in each of the following areas performance conceptualization and measurement individual differences and selection and classification decision models The presentations in each of these areas are integrated into a set of coherent themes This integration was the product of structured group discussions which also resulted in a further evolution of some of the ideas presented
