

MM/CV211 – Solid Mechanics 1

Lab 3 - Torsion Experiment

Objective

To observe the relationship between the torque and angular deflection of a specimen subjected to torsional loading and to determine the Modulus of Rigidity of the shaft.

Introduction

The following assumptions are made when considering the shaft subject to pure torque as shown in the figure below.

1. The twisting action is uniform along the whole length of the shaft.
2. Radii remain straight
3. Transverse planes remain parallel to each other.

These are reasonable assumptions if the deformation is elastic and the shaft is circular. Consider an elemental tube of radius r and thickness δ in the shaft. The tangential displacement on the tube wall due to angular displacement θ is $r\theta$ (θ in radians) therefore

Shear strain around the wall of the tube $= \frac{r\theta}{L}$ (radians)

And the definition of the rigidity modulus $G = \frac{\text{Stress}}{\text{Strain}} = \frac{\tau}{\delta}$

Hence $\tau = \frac{Gr\theta}{L} \text{ N/m}^2$

Exploring Physical Anthropology Laboratory Manual & Workbook Suzanne E. Walker-Pacheco, 2017-02-01

Exploring Physical Anthropology is a comprehensive full color lab manual intended for an introductory laboratory course in physical anthropology. It can also serve as a supplementary workbook for a lecture class particularly in the absence of a laboratory offering. This laboratory manual enables a hands on approach to learning about the evolutionary processes that resulted in humans through the use of numerous examples and exercises. It offers a solid grounding in the main areas of an introductory physical anthropology lab course: genetics, evolutionary forces, human osteology, forensic anthropology, comparative functional skeletal anatomy, primate behavior, paleoanthropology, and modern human biological variation.

An Introductory Guide to EC Competition Law and Practice Valentine Korah, 1994 Goal Oriented Learning Environments Horace Moo-Young, Timothy

Fortner, 2003. E learning encompasses many things to many people. Elliot Massie, a leading e learning guru, states that Online learning is not about taking a course and putting it on desktop. It encompasses a combination of learning services and technology to provide high value integrated learning anytime and anywhere. GOLE aims to create a virtual learning simulator that is capable of customizing the pedagogy to the learners' learning style. To properly design learn by doing scenarios, the learning environment must balance the learning objectives with authenticity. The key is to build a realistic environment which is complex enough to promote expectation failure and robust enough to support the learner at that point. Two of the major learning objectives for a goal oriented learning environment are the application of facts and building specific skills. The purpose of this research was to design, develop, implement and assess a Goal Oriented Learning Environment (GOLE) into the Civil and Environmental Engineering curriculum at Lehigh University. Also to design, develop, implement and assess Internet based instructional systems into the CEE curriculum. To achieve these objectives, a GOLE was implemented into two courses that were used as case studies in this research. These case studies describe the instructional design method utilized and the assessment involved to evaluate the courses. The instructional design method utilized nine steps: Discuss, Determine, Decide, Design, Develop, Implement, Assessment, Evaluation, and Evolve. The designing of GOLE focused on content delivery platform, character development and story line. In order to assess and evaluate the GOLE, a series of five evaluations were created in
