

CHAPTER 16

PARTNERSHIPS: LIQUIDATION

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Q16-1 The major causes of a dissolution are:

- a. Withdrawal or death of a partner
- b. The specified term or task of the partnership has been completed
- c. All partners agree to dissolve the partnership
- d. An individual partner is bankrupt
- e. By court decree:
  - i. the partnership cannot achieve its economic purpose (typically defined as seeking a profit)
  - ii. a partner seriously breaches the partnership agreement that makes it impracticable to continue the partnership business
  - iii. it is not practicable to carry on the partnership in conformity with the terms of the partnership agreement

The accounting implications of a dissolution are to determine each partner's capital balance on the date of dissolution of the partnership.

Q16-2 The UPA 1997 states that a partnership's liabilities to individual partners have the same legal status as liabilities to outside parties. There is no offset of liabilities to individual partners with their capital accounts.

Q16-3 The implications that arise for partners X and Y are that both of the partners will be required to contribute a portion of their capital balances or personal assets to satisfy partnership creditors. Partners X and Y will share this contribution according to their relative loss ratio.

Q16-4 In an "at will" partnership (one without a partnership agreement that states a definite time period or specific undertaking for the partnership), a partner may simply withdraw from the partnership. Many partnerships have a provision in their partnership agreement for a buyout of an "at will" partner who wishes to leave the partnership.

In a partnership that has a definite term or a specific undertaking specified in the partnership agreement, a partner who simply withdraws has committed a wrongful dissociation. If the partnership incurs any damages, the partnership may sue the partner who withdraws for the recovery of those damages.

Q16-5 A lump-sum liquidation of a partnership is one in which all assets are converted into cash within a very short time, creditors are paid, and a single, lump-sum payment is made to the partners for their capital interests. An installment liquidation is one that requires several months to complete and includes periodic, or installment, payments to the partners during the liquidation period.

Q16-6 A deficit in a partner's capital account (relating to an insolvent partner) is eliminated by distributing the deficit to the other solvent partners in their resulting loss ratio.
