Arsov, J. Marsalek, W. Ed Watt, Evzen Zeman, 2012-12-06 Urban population growth dramatically alters material and energy fluxes in the affected areas with concomitant changes in landscape altered fluxes of water sediment chemicals and pathogens and increased releases of waste heat These changes then impact on urban ecosystems including water resources and result in their degradation Such circumstances make the provision of water services to urban populations even more challenging Changing weather patterns rising temperature and large variations in precipitation contribute to increased damages caused by weather related disasters including floods One of the major contributors to increasing flood peaks are land use changes and particularly urban development Consequently there is a need to look for low environmental impact land development and to manage runoff in urban areas by storm water management Much progress in the management of urban waters has been achieved in the most advanced jurisdictions but much more remains to be done In this respect the EC Water Framework Directive can provide some guidance Urban water management issues are particularly important in the countries in transition in Central and Eastern Europe During the last decade political economical and social changes in the countries under transition have influenced almost every element of the public sector including water services There is an urgent need for exchange of information among various countries on this issue and for identification of best approaches to achieving this transition

Urban Stormwater Management Manual for Malaysia: Reference guide, 2000 Sustainable Water Services Richard M. Ashley, D. Blackwood, P. Jowitt, 2004-06-30 Sustainable Water Services A Procedural Guide is the result of the Sustainable Water industry Asset Resource Decisions SWARD project undertaken by a consortium of UK academics in collaboration with water service providers in Scotland England and Romania It has been developed to act as a practical tool to assist with the explicit inclusion of sustainability in the decision making processes of those responsible for providing water services The book contains a framework that comprises a set of decision support processes that can be used by water service providers to explicitly incorporate sustainability considerations into their decision making procedures through the use of sustainability principles criteria indicators and processes These principles and criteria can be applied at an overall corporate strategic level for example in the service provider s mission statement or at an application level where these strategic principles are being applied to a particular decision Sustainable Water Services is designed to inform and to provide support for strategic activity both as a resource containing information about sustainability and by employing feedback from application to inform the strategic processes of the water service provider Presents an inclusive and generic set of sustainability criteria for use in water industry decision making processes Discusses the legislative drivers for sustainable decision making for the UK water industry Presents clear case study examples of the sustainability framework in action Discusses the use and applicability of a wide range of tools and techniques for undertaking environmental economic and social analyses e g life cycle assessment multi criteria analysis
