Goldthwaite, 2017-06-19 Inspired by the need for interpretations and critiques of the varied messages surrounding what and how we eat Food Feminisms Rhetorics collects eighteen essays that demonstrate the importance of food and food related practices as sites of scholarly study particularly from feminist rhetorical perspectives Contributors analyze messages about food and bodies from what a person watches and reads to where that person shops taken from sources mundane and literary personal and cultural This collection begins with analyses of the historical cultural and political implications of cookbooks and recipes explores definitions of feminist food writing and ends with a focus on bodies and cultures both self representations and representations of others for particular rhetorical purposes The genres objects and practices contributors study are varied from cookbooks to genre fiction from blogs to food systems from product packaging to paintings but the overall message is the same food and its associated practices are worthy of scholarly attention Recipes for Reading Anne Bower, 1997 The community cookbook is a familiar item in many kitchens Usually compiled by women and sold to raise funds for a charitable cause these collections of recipes may seem to be utilitarian objects that exhibit little if any narrative interest But this is hardly the case In Recipes for Reading scholars from a variety of disciplines examine community cookbooks as complex texts deserving serious study The contributors contend that such cookbooks have stories to tell about the lives and values of the women who wrote them stories that are autobiographical in most cases historical in some and fictive in others Homebrew All-Stars Drew Beechum, Denny Conn, 2016-05 The heavyweight champions of homebrewing showcase their skills in Homebrew All Stars a collection of techniques tips and recipes for homebrewers The Literature of Food Nicola Humble, 2020-02-06 Why are so many literary texts preoccupied with food The Literature of Food explores this question by looking at the continually shifting relationship between two sorts of foods the real and the imagined Focusing particularly on Britain and North America from the early 19th century to the present it covers a wide range of issues including the politics of food food as performance and its intersections with gender class fear and disgust Combining the insights of food studies and literary analysis Nicola Humble considers the multifarious ways in which food both works and plays within texts and the variety of functions ideological mimetic symbolic structural affective which it serves Carefully designed and structured for use on the growing number of literature of food courses it examines the food of modernism post modernism the realist novel and children s literature and asks what happens when we treat cook books as literary texts From food memoirs to the changing role of the servant experimental cook books to the cannibalistic fears in infant picture books The Literature of Food demonstrates that food is always richer and stranger than we think Faith, Food, and Friendship Walter J. The Creative Mind in Coleridge's Poetry Kathleen M. Wheeler, 1981 Five of Coleridge's major poems are given fresh scrutiny in this arresting study One of its unusual features is the attention given the Preface to Kubla Khan the Gloss to The Ancient Mariner and other prose accompaniments to the poems usually dismissed as extraneous Devices such as these the author argues are strategically employed by Coleridge in an effort to engage the reader in a fully imaginative response Kathleen Wheeler elucidates the texts in terms of aesthetic experience and also in terms of the philosophical principles that inform them showing how Coleridge's theories of mind and imagination function within the poems and shape their design A subtle and gifted reader of poetry she enriches our understanding of poems we thought we knew well and provides insights along the way into the creative process
