Guide to Developmental and Psychological Testing Glen P. Aylward,2013-06-29 The practice of primary health care has expanded beyond the traditional medical model Primary care physicians and allied professionals are called upon more frequently to address parental concerns about developmental delays poor school performance or behavioral problems As a result pediatricians family practitioners pediatric nurses social workers and speech language specialists are faced with the issue of developmental and psychological testing The degree of the clinician's involvement in testing varies from interpretation of reports to performing screening or assessments In many cases the primary health care professional assumes the role of case manager Unfortunately cooperation between disciplines often has been limited because of poor communication particularly in regard to developmental and psychological testing where acronyms statistics and jargon abound Even professionals from mental health disciplines such as child psychiatrists or psychiatric social workers sometimes are overwhelmed The purpose of this book therefore is to provide the clinician with practical information regarding developmental and psychological testing thereby making the health care professional an educated consumer This text does not simply describe how psychologists perform testing rather it provides information to help clinicians understand what the tests contain what their strengths and limitations are and how they can be incorporated into practice Comprehensive

Handbook of Nonverbal Assessment R. Steve McCallum,2013-06-29 Psychologists educators and related health care professionals spend an enormous amount of time and energy evaluating the abilities of children and adults they serve Assessment may be tailored to determine cognitive strengths and weaknesses academic progress the effects of central nervous system trauma personality and so on For many children and adults traditional verbally laden instruments cannot be used For example individuals who have speech and or language deficits hearing impairments emotional problems and those from other cultures cannot be evaluated with tests that rely on standard English Our culture is becoming increasingly diverse as a result schools and mental health professionals are required to serve an increasingly large community of nontraditional learners Because many of these individuals cannot be evaluated fairly by language loaded tests there is a need to use techniques and tools that are language free or can be adapted or modified to minimize the effect of language For these individuals language is a barrier to assessment rather than a vehicle The primary goal for the contributors to the Handbook of Nonverbal Assessment is to describe the most current assessment strategies and related best practices to professionals who serve individuals from diverse cultures or those who have difficulty using the English language such professionals include school psychologists special educators speech and hearing specialists rehabilitation coun and so on
