Geography Stephen Williams, Alan A. Lew, 2014 For human geographers a central theme within the discipline is interpreting and understanding our changing world a world in which geographic patterns are constantly being reworked by powerful forces of change These forces include population shifts new patterns of economic production and consumption evolving social and political structures new forms of urbanism and globalisation and the compressions of time and space that are the product of the ongoing revolutions in information technology and telecommunications This book attempts to show how tourism has also come to be a major force for change as an integral and indispensable part of the places in which we live their economies and their societies When scarcely a corner of the globe remains untouched by the influence of tourism this is a phenomenon that we can no longer ignore Tourism is also an intensely geographic phenomenon It exists through the desire of people to move in search of embodied experience of other places as individuals and en masse and at scales from the local to the

increasingly global Tourism creates distinctive relationships between people as tourists and the host spaces places and people they visit which has significant implications for destination development and resource use and exploitation which are exhibited through a range of economic social cultural and environmental impacts that have important implications for local geographies This third edition of Tourism Geography critical understandings of place space and experience presents an essential understanding of critical perspectives on how tourism places and spaces are created and maintained Drawing on the holistic nature of geography a range of social science disciplinary views are presented including both historical and contemporary perspectives Fundamentally however the book strives to connect tourism to key geographical concepts of globalisation mobility production and consumption physical landscapes and post industrial change The book is arranged in five parts Part I provides an overview of fundamental tourism definitions and concepts along with an introduction to some of the major themes in contemporary geographic research on tourism which are further developed in subsequent chapters of this book In Part II the discussion focuses on how spatial patterns of modern tourism have evolved through time from regional to global geographies Part III offers an extended discussion of how tourism relates to places that are toured through their economic landscape contemporary environmental change and socio cultural relations Part IV explores a range of major themes in the geographies of tourism including place creation and promotion the transformation of urban tourism heritage and place identity and creating personal identity through consumption encounters with nature and other embodied forms of tourism experience Part V turns to applied geography with an overview of the different roles of planning for tourism as a means of spatial regulation of the activity and a look at emerging themes in the critical geography of contemporary and future geographies of tourism This third edition has been revised by Dr Alan A Lew who becomes the new co author of Tourism Geography Some of the major revisions that I have incorporated include moving most of the case study boxes to the website <http://tourismgeography.com> which will provide a growing wealth of new case studies over time I have also incorporated new material reorganised some of the content to balance the topics covered created a new concluding chapter that explores some recently emerging perspectives in critical tourism geography and re written the text to make it more accessible to a global English speaking world That said the book is still very much the work of Dr Stephen Williams As such it maintains its original concise yet comprehensive review of contemporary tourism geography and the ways in which geographers critically interpret this important global phenomenon It is written as an introductory text for students and includes guidance for further study in each chapter that can form the basis for independent work Lecturers using this textbook are welcome to contribute to the book s content developing through the supporting website by contacting me at any time

Understanding the Impacts of Tourism Joanne Connell, Stephen Page, 2010 Understanding and Managing Tourism Prateek A. Aggarwal, 2014 The Cultural Moment in Tourism Laurajane Smith, Emma Waterton, Steve Watson, 2012 This book is a response to the burgeoning interest in cultural tourism and the associated need for a coherently

theorized approach for understanding the practices that such an interest creates Cultural tourism has become an important and popular aspect of contemporary tourism studies as well as providing a rich seam of upscale product development opportunities in the industry as a whole Much of the related literature however focuses upon describing and categorizing cultural tourism from a supply side perspective This has prompted the taxonomizing of cultural tourists on the basis of their level of involvement and interest in cultural tourism products and or their economic worth as a sought after market segment There have been few recent attempts at a rigorous re theorization of the issues beyond conventional representational theories this book aims to fill that void This groundbreaking volume provides a theoretical and empirical account of what it means to be a cultural or heritage tourist It achieves this by exploring the interactions of people with places spaces intangible heritage and ways of life not as linear alignments but as seductive moments of encounter engagement performance and meaning making which are constitutive of cultural experience in its broadest sense The book further explores encounters in cultural tourism as events that capture and constitute important social relations involving power and authority self consciousness and social position gender and space history and the present It also explores the consequences these insights have for our understanding of culture and heritage and its management in the context of tourist activity In capturing the cultural moment this book provides a better understanding of the motivations on site activities meaning constructions and other cultural work done by both tourists and tourist operators The volume confronts and explores the cultural political and economical interrelations between culture heritage and the tourism industry In so doing it also investigates how this co mingling of identity representation and social life may be better apprehended with the wider shift in critical thought towards notions of affect and performativity The book is a fundamental and influential contribution to research in this field It will be of significant value to students academics and researchers interested in this broad topic area
