French essayist and thinker One of the most important writers and thinkers of the Renaissance Michel de Montaigne 1533 92 helped invent a literary genre that seemed more modern than anything that had come before But did he do it as he suggests in his Essays by retreating to his chateau and stoically detaching himself from his violent times Philippe Desan overturns this long standing myth by showing that Montaigne was constantly connected to and concerned with realizing his political ambitions and that the literary and philosophical character of the Essays largely depends on them Desan shows how

Montaigne conceived of each edition of the Essays as an indispensable prerequisite to the next stage of his public career It was only after his political failure that Montaigne took refuge in literature and even then it was his political experience that enabled him to find the right tone for his genre The most comprehensive and authoritative biography of Montaigne yet

Inventor of Printing Jan Hendrik Hessels, 2013-03-11 Antiqu Libri The Archaeology of the Book ATB 1302 In this volume

Jan Hendrik Hessels takes a critical look at the question who invented printing with movable type While he affirms that Gutenberg was an important printer he does not feel that there was enough evidence to state that he was the inventor Hessels was also the translator of Van der Linde's volume The Haarlem legend of the invention of printing by Lourens Janszoon Coster

Born to Write Neil Kenny, 2020-02-27 It is easy to forget how deeply embedded in social hierarchy was the literature and learning that has come down to us from the early modern European world From fiction to philosophy from poetry to history works of all kinds emerged from and through the social hierarchy that was a fundamental fact of everyday life Paying attention to it changes how we might understand and interpret the works themselves whether canonical and familiar or largely forgotten But a second related fact is much overlooked too works also often emanated from families not just from individuals Families were driving forces in the production that is in the composing editing translating or publishing of countless works Relatives collaborated with each other edited each other or continued the unfinished works of deceased family members some imitated or were inspired by the works of long dead relatives The reason why this second fact about families is connected to the first about social hierarchy is that families were in the period a basic social medium through which social status was claimed maintained threatened or lost So producing literary works was one of the many ways in which families claimed their place in the social world The process was however often fraught difficult or disappointing If families created works as a form of socio cultural legacy that might continue to benefit their future members not all members benefited equally women sometimes produced or claimed the legacy for themselves but they were often sidelined from it Relatives sometimes disagreed bitterly about family history identity not least religious and so about the picture of themselves and their family that they wished to project more widely in society through their written works whether printed or manuscript So although family was a fundamental social medium out of which so many works emerged that process could be conflictual as well as harmonious The intertwined role of family and social hierarchy within literary production is explored in this book through the case of France from the late fifteenth to the mid seventeenth century Some families are studied here in detail such as that of the most widely read French poet of the age Clément Marot But the extent of this phenomenon is quantified too some two hundred families are identified as each containing more than one literary producer and in the case of one family an extraordinary twenty seven

Multilingual Literature as World Literature Jane Hiddleston, Wen-chin Ouyang, 2021-05-06 Multilingual Literature as World Literature examines and adjusts current theories and practices of world literature particularly the conceptions of world global and local reflecting on the ways that multilingualism opens up the borders of language nation and genre and makes visible different modes of circulation across languages nations media and cultures The contributors to Multilingual Literature as World Literature examine four major areas of critical research First by looking at how engaging with multilingualism as a mode of reading makes visible the multiple pathways of circulation including as aesthetics or poetics emerging in the literary world when languages come into contact with each other Second by exploring how politics and ethics contribute to shaping multilingual texts at a particular time and place with a focus on the local as a site for the interrogation of global concerns and a call for diversity Third by engaging with translation and untranslatability in order to consider the ways in which ideas and concepts elude capture in one language but must be read comparatively across multiple languages And finally by proposing a new vision for linguistic creativity beyond the binary structure of monolingualism versus multilingualism
