

	properly? TTTTT Look for a topic sentence. Your concluding sentence will look a lot like your topic sentence.
Maria most likely wrote this report for	This is an author's purpose question. Ask yourself, "Was I given information?" (Inform) "Was the author trying to convince me to think a certain way?" (persuade) "Was the author telling me an entertaining story?" (entertain)
Maria has decided to write her next report about Cherokee art. Which source will give her the most reliable information about that topic?	When the word " most " is underlined, this means that all of the choices may help, but there is one that will help more than the others. Think of the sources sitting alone. Without any other source, will this one be enough to help me do what I need to do?
Which revision of the sentence uses commas correctly?	Which sentence has the commas in the right place?
Which idea best fits the blank space in the outline?	Figure out which topic the blank space falls under. If the blank is underneath a topic about qualities of dogs, you might choose an answer that gives you one quality or characteristic of a dog.
Based on the prefix, what does the underlined word mean?	They want you to figure out the meaning of the prefix. (The part before the base/root word) (Use context clues if possible.)
Which question can be answered after reading the passage?	Read each question and see if you can find the answer in the passage. There will be one question that isn't answered in the passage.
Which sentence best summarizes the passage?	Look at the headings in the passage. How many are there? Now look at each answer and see which one covers the most information mentioned under each heading. For example, choice A might talk about information found under 3 of the 5 headings, while choice B talks about information found in 4 out of the 5 headings. You should choose the answer that covers the highest.
