

THE LANGUAGE OF ARGUMENT

Using the techniques developed in Chapter 2, this chapter will examine the use of language to formulate arguments and will provide methods to analyze genuine arguments in their richness and complexity. The first stage in analyzing an argument is the discovery of its basic structure. To do this, we will examine the words, phrases, and special constructions that indicate the premises and conclusions of an argument. The second stage is to explore the standards that arguments are supposed to meet. Here we will focus on validity, truth, and soundness. The third stage is the study of techniques used to protect an argument. These include guarding premises so that they are less subject to criticism, offering assurances concerning debatable claims, and discounting possible criticisms in advance.

ARGUMENT MARKERS

In Chapter 2, we saw that language is used for a great many different purposes. One important thing that we do with language is construct arguments. Arguments are constructed out of statements, but arguments are not just lists of statements. Here is a simple list of statements:

Socrates is a man.
All men are mortal.
Socrates is mortal.

This list is not an argument, because none of these statements is presented as a reason for any other statement. It is, however, simple to turn this list into an argument. All we have to do is to add the single word “therefore”:

Socrates is a man.
All men are mortal.
Therefore, Socrates is mortal.

Now we have an argument. The word “therefore” converts these sentences into an argument by signaling that the statement following it is a conclusion, and the statement or statements that come before it are offered as reasons on behalf of this conclusion. The argument we have produced in this way

Methodological Cognitivism Riccardo Viale, 2012-05-24 This book deals with the cognitive foundation of the theory of social action The social sciences are still guided by models of social action far from the empirical reality of the psychology of action While economics seems to have made greater progress in accepting the changes to the theory of action derived from cognitive science see for example the 2002 Nobel prize for economics awarded to Daniel Kahneman sociology is still being oriented on the dualism of hermeneutics vs structuralism which leaves very little room for a cognitive theory of social action The unique features of the book are its combination of epistemology philosophy of mind and cognitive science in order to renew and overcome the limits of the current methodologies of social science and in particular methodological individualism Methodological cognitivism is proposed as an alternative to the holistic character of structuralism to the intentionalist and rationalist features of methodological individualism and to the relativistic character of hermeneutics and ethnomethodology

Constitutional Law: Rights, Liberties and Justice 8th Edition Lee Epstein, Thomas G. Walker, 2013 Judicial decisions never occur in a vacuum they are influenced by a myriad of political factors From lawyers and interest groups to the shifting sentiments of public opinion to the ideological and behavioral inclinations of the justices Epstein and Walker show how all these dynamics play an integral part in the overall development of constitutional doctrine Drawing deeply from the spheres of political science and legal studies the excerpted case material is skillfully analyzed and presented for today's students Known for fastidious revising and streamlining the authors account for the latest scholarship in the field and offer rock solid analysis of recent landmark cases including as all the important opinions handed down through 2011 Building on the successes of the 7th edition the book's clean layout and design clearly distinguishes between commentary and opinion excerpts Not only does the design make the book an easier read for students it effectively showcases photos justice biographies and the Aftermath and Global Perspective sidebars And based on positive user feedback the authors have added even more Aftermath boxes in this new edition New cases in the 8th edition Hosanna Tabor Evangelical Lutheran Church and School v Equal Employment Opportunity Commission 2012 Snyder v Phelps 2011 Brown v Entertainment Merchants Association 2011 United States v Jones 2012 Citizens United v Federal Election Commission
