Pax Economica Marc-William Palen, 2024-02-27 The forgotten history of the liberal radicals socialist internationalists feminists and Christians who envisioned free trade as the necessary prerequisite for anti imperialism and peace Today free trade is often associated with right wing free marketeers In Pax Economica historian Marc William Palen shows that free trade and globalisation in fact have roots in nineteenth century left wing politics In this counterhistory of an idea Palen explores how beginning in the 1840s left wing globalists became the leaders of the peace and anti imperialist movements of their age By the early twentieth century an unlikely alliance of liberal radicals socialist internationalists feminists and Christians envisioned free trade as essential for a prosperous and peaceful world order Of course this vision was at odds with the era s strong predilections for nationalism protectionism geopolitical conflict and colonial expansion Palen reveals how for some of its most radical left wing adherents free trade represented a hard nosed critique of imperialism militarism and war Palen shows that the anti imperial component of free trade was a phenomenon that came to encompass the political left wing within the British American Spanish German Dutch Belgian Italian Russian French and Japanese empires The left wing vision of a pax economica evolved to include supranational regulation to maintain a peaceful free trading system which paved the way for a more liberal economic order after World War II and such institutions as the United Nations the European Union and the World Trade Organization Palen s findings upend how we think about globalisation free trade anti imperialism and peace Rediscovering the left wing history of globalism offers timely lessons for our own era of economic nationalism and geopolitical conflict
