1. The first step in solving a system of linear equations is to write the equations in slope-intercept form. This allows you to compare the slopes of the lines. If the slopes are different, the lines are not parallel and there is a unique solution. If the slopes are the same, the lines are either parallel (no solution) or coincident (infinitely many solutions). To determine if the lines are parallel, coincident, or have a unique solution, you can compare the slopes and y-intercepts of the lines.
