Teaching Strategies For Essay Writing:

Teaching Academic Writing Caroline Coffin, Mary Jane Curry, Sharon Goodman, Ann Hewings, Theresa Lillis, Joan Swann, 2005-07-26 Student academic writing is at the heart of teaching and learning in higher education. Students are assessed largely by what they write and need to learn both general academic conventions as well as disciplinary writing requirements in order to be successful in higher education. Teaching Academic Writing is a toolkit designed to help higher education lecturers and tutors teach writing to their students. Containing a range of diverse teaching strategies, the book offers both practical activities to help students develop their writing abilities and guidelines to help lecturers and tutors think in more depth about the assessment tasks they set and the feedback they give to students. The authors explore a wide variety of text types from essays and reflective diaries to research projects and laboratory reports. The book draws on recent research in the fields of academic literacy, second language learning and linguistics. It is grounded in recent developments such as the increasing diversity of the student body, the use of the Internet, electronic tuition and issues related to distance learning in an era of increasing globalisation. Written by experienced teachers of writing, language and linguistics, Teaching Academic Writing will be of interest to anyone involved in teaching academic writing in higher education. Reading and Learning Strategies Susan Davis Lenski, Mary Ann Wham, Jerry L. Differentiated Instructional Strategies for Writing in the Content Areas Carolyn Chapman, Rita King, 2003-02-05 A wonderful guide for different ways to approach writing in the classroom. Lesson ideas, rubrics, assessments and activities all work together to help classroom teachers put together a comprehensive writing programme. Anchorage School District Book Review. This volume of differentiated writing strategies allows all teachers to teach writing at the same time that they teach content. Specific and explicit strategies allow teachers to work with student writers at all levels in all learning styles within all multiple intelligences and at all developmental stages. Topics include writing styles, Scribbling, Picture Making, Story Telling, Letter Shaking, Copying, Sound Making, Sentence Making, Story Making, invented spelling methods for assessing and remedying writing problems, flexible grouping, the complete writing process from Pre Writing through First Draft, Revision, Editing, Final Copy and Publication, an extensive selection of genres and formats appropriate to the different content areas, Writing A-Z and guidelines on lesson planning that supports each student's individual needs before, during and after their writing experiences.

Teaching Writing in the Content Areas Vicki Urquhart, Monette McIver, 2005-05-15 Most educators intuitively understand the critical relationship between thinking and writing: writing allows us to express what we think, but the very act of writing spurs a process of exploration that changes our thinking and helps us learn. Teaching Writing in the Content Areas examines nearly 30 years of research to identify how teachers can incorporate writing instruction that helps students master the course content and improve their overall achievement. Building on the recommendations of the National Commission on Writing, authors Vicki Urquhart and Monette McIver introduce four critical issues teachers should address when they include writing in their content courses Creating a positive environment for the feedback and guidance students need at various stages including prewriting drafting revising and editing Monitoring and assessing how much students are learning through their writing Choosing computer programs that best enhance the writing process Strengthening their knowledge of course content and their own writing skills The authors also provide 35 classroom strategies practices and handouts that teachers can easily implement in most subject areas or grade levels From prewriting guides and work sheets to instructional guidance and analysis the strategies offer realistic options to help teachers tailor writing assignments and instruction to the needs of each class Teaching Writing in the Content Areas is more than a primer for teaching the mechanics of writing it is a research based guide to regularly engaging students in writing that pushes them to express themselves clearly to explore new ideas and to become critical thinkers

Empirical Methods for Evaluating Educational Interventions Gary D. Phye, Daniel H. Robinson, Joel Levin, 2005-04-22 New US government requirements state that federally funded grants and school programs must prove that they are based on scientifically proved improvements in teaching and learning All new grants must show they are based on scientifically sound research to be funded and budgets to schools must likewise show that they are based on scientifically sound research However the movement in education over the past several years has been toward qualitative rather than quantitative measures The new legislation comes at a time when researchers are ill trained to measure results or even to frame questions in an empirical way and when school administrators and teachers are no longer remember or were never trained to prove statistically that their programs are effective Experimental Methods for Evaluating Educational Interventions is a tutorial on what it means to frame a question in an empirical manner how one needs to test that a method works what statistics one uses to measure effectiveness and how to document these findings in a way so as to be compliant with new empirically based requirements The book is simplistic enough to be accessible to those teaching and administrative educational professionals long out of schooling but comprehensive and sophisticated enough to be of use to researchers who know experimental design and statistics but don't know how to use what they know to write acceptable grant proposals or to get governmental funding for their programs Provides an overview to interpreting empirical data in education Reviews data analysis techniques use and interpretation Discusses research on learning instruction and curriculum Explores importance of showing progress as well as cause and effect Identifies obstacles to applying research into practice Examines policy development for states nations and countries
