Teaching In The Art Museum Interpretation As Experience:

Teaching in the Art Museum Rika Burnham, Elliott Kai-Kee, 2011 Teaching in the Art Museum investigates the mission history theory practice and future prospects of museum education In this book Rika Burnham and Elliott Kai Kee define and articulate a new approach to gallery teaching one that offers groups of visitors deep and meaningful experiences of interpreting art works through a process of intense sustained looking and thoughtfully facilitated dialogue book cover

Activity-Based Teaching in the Art Museum Elliott Kai-Kee, Lissa Latina, Lilit Sadoyan, 2020-01-28 This groundbreaking book explores why and how to encourage physical and sensory engagement with works of art An essential resource for museum professionals teachers and students the award winning Teaching in the Art Museum Getty Publications 2011 set a new standard in the field of gallery education This follow up book blends theory and practice to help educators from teachers and docents to curators and parents create meaningful interpretive activities for children and adults Written by a team of veteran museum educators Activity Based Teaching in the Art Museum offers diverse perspectives on embodiment emotions empathy and mindfulness to inspire imaginative spontaneous interactions that are firmly grounded in history and theory The authors begin by surveying the emergence of activity based teaching in the 1960s and 1970s and move on to articulate a theory of play as the cornerstone of their innovative methodology The volume is replete with sidebars describing activities facilitated with museum visitors of all ages Table of Contents Introduction Part I History 1 The Modern History of Presence and Meaning A philosophical shift from a language based understanding of the world to direct physical interaction with it 2 A New Age in Museum Education The 1960s and 1970s A brief history of some of the innovative museum education programs developed in the United States in the late 1960s and 1970s The sudden and widespread adoption of nondiscursive gallery activities during this period especially but not exclusively in programs designed for younger students and school groups expressed the spirit of the times Part II Theory 3 Starts and Stops Two attempts by American museum educators to articulate a theory for their new nondiscursive programs the first deriving from the early work of Project Zero the Harvard Graduate School of Education program founded by the philosopher Nelson Goodman to study arts learning as a cognitive activity the second stemming from the work of Viola Spolin the acclaimed theater educator and coach whose teaching methods embodied in a series of theater games were detailed in her well known book Improvisation for the Theater 1963 4 A Theory of Play in the Museum A theory of play that posits activities in the museum as forms of play that take place in spaces or playgrounds temporarily designated as such by educators and their adult visitors or students Play is defined essentially as movement both physical and imaginary metaphorical toward and away from around and inside and outside the works of art that are foregrounded within those spaces Gallery activities conceived in this way respond to the possibilities that the objects themselves offer for the visitor to explore and engage with them The particular movements characterizing an activity are crucially conditioned by the object in question they constitute a process of discovery and learning conceptually distinct from

but supportive of traditional dialogue based modes of museum education which they supplement rather than supplant Part III Aspects of Play 5 Embodiment Affordances The idea of embodiment adopted here recognizes that both mind and body are joined in their interactions with things Investigating works of art thus involves apprehending them physically as well as intellectually in the sense of responding to the ways in which a particular work allows and even solicits the viewer's physical grasp of it 6 Skills Ways in which objects present themselves to us as viewers and what we might do in response as they fit with the bodily skills we have developed over the course of our lives Such skills might be as simple as getting dressed washing or eating or as specialized as doing one's hair dancing playing an instrument or acting all of which may allow us to grasp and even feel that we inhabit particular works of art 7 Movement Embodied looking is always looking from somewhere We apprehend objects as we physically move around and in front of them they reveal themselves differently as we approach them from different viewpoints Viewers orient themselves spatially to both the surfaces of objects and to the things and spaces depicted in or suggested by representational works of art Activity based teaching gets visitors and students to move among the objects away from them close to them and even into them 8 The Senses Both adult visitors and younger students come to the museum expecting to use their eyes yet visual art appeals to several of the senses at once though rarely to the same degree Sculpture for example almost always appeals to touch whether or not that is actually possible or allowed as well as sight A painting depicting a scene in which people appear to be talking may induce viewers to not only look but also listen to what the figures might be saying 9 Drawing in the Museum Looking at art with a pencil in hand amplifies viewers ability to imaginatively touch and feel their way across and around an artwork Contour drawing by its nature requires participants to imagine that they are touching the contours of an object beneath the tips of their pencils Other types of drawing allow viewers to feel their way around objects through observation and movement 10 Emotion Visitors emotional responses to art represent a complex process with many components from physiological to cognitive and a particular work of art may elicit a wide range of emotional reactions This chapter describes specific ways in which museum educators can go well beyond merely asking visitors how a work of art makes them feel 11 Empathy and Intersubjectivity One aspect of viewers emotional responses to art that is often taken for granted if not neglected altogether the empathetic connections that human beings make to images of other people This chapter advocates an approach that prompts viewers to physically engage with the representations of people they see 12 Mindful Looking Mindfulness involves awareness and attention both as a conscious practice and as an attitude that gallery teachers can encourage in museum visitors This is not solely a matter of cultivating the mind however it is also a matter of cultivating the body since mindfulness is only possible when mind and body are in a state of harmonious relaxed attentiveness Mindfulness practice in the art museum actively directs the viewer's focus on the object itself and insists on returning to it over and over yet it also balances activity with conscious stillness Afterword

Acknowledgments      Activity-Based Teaching in the Art Museum Elliot Kai-Kee, Lissa Latina, Lilit Sadoyan, 2020-01-21

This groundbreaking book explores why and how to encourage physical and sensory engagement with works of art. An essential resource for museum professionals, teachers, and students, the award-winning Teaching in the Art Museum (Getty Publications, 2011) set a new standard in the field of gallery education. This follow-up book blends theory and practice to help educators, from teachers and docents to curators and parents, create meaningful interpretive activities for children and adults. Written by a team of veteran museum educators, Activity Based Teaching in the Art Museum offers diverse perspectives on embodiment, emotions, empathy, and mindfulness to inspire imaginative, spontaneous interactions that are firmly grounded in history and theory. The authors begin by surveying the emergence of activity-based teaching in the 1960s and 1970s and move on to articulate a theory of play as the cornerstone of their innovative methodology. The volume is replete with sidebars describing activities facilitated with museum visitors of all ages.

Creating Meaningful Museum Experiences for K-12 Audiences
 Tara Young, 2021-10-30
Creating Meaningful Museum Experiences for K-12 Audiences: How to Connect with Teachers and Engage Students is the first book in more than a decade to provide a comprehensive look at best practices in working with this crucial segment of museum visitors. With more than 40 contributors from art, history, science, natural history, and specialty museums across the country, the book asks probing questions about museum-school relationships, suggests new paradigms, and offers creative approaches. Fully up to date with current issues relevant to museums' work with schools, including anti-racist teaching approaches and pivoting to virtual programming during the pandemic, this book is essential for both established and emerging museum educators to ensure they are current on best practices in the field. The book features four parts: Setting the Stage looks at how museums establish and finance K-12 programs and how to engage with the youngest audiences; Building Blocks considers the core elements of successful K-12 programming, including mission alignment, educator recruitment and training, working with teacher advisory boards, and anti-racist teaching practices; Questions and New Paradigms presents case studies in which practitioners reconsider established approaches to museums' work with schools and engage in iterative processes to update and improve them; from evaluating K-12 museum programs to diversifying program content to prioritizing virtual programming Solutions and Innovative Models offers examples of programs that have been reimaged for the current landscape of museum school collaborations including practicing self care for teachers and museum educators investing in extended school relationships over one time visits and highlighting the stories of enslaved people who lived at historic sites
