Sharp Vision Manual:

Air Force Manual United States. Department of the Air Force, 1955 Typographic manual - Annandreas, 2021-09-21

Typography is language and design for reading Typographic manual is the first manual for the cluster text style i e for texts intended to be read for longer periods of time Since the birth of typography Gutenberg we have created books with text rectangles that are nice to look at The picture of the rectangle text held us captive This manual clearly shows the inaccuracies in that approach Depending on how we read 100 600 wpm and if we measure reading speed in wpm day span or week span the cluster text style can be 5 30 percent better to read Its longer line length wider text column larger sentence spacings and better line changes improve legibility All in all this gives an exact typographic style and therefore it is not reflowable So please note that this book needs to be read on tablets at least 13 inches wide where you can read a line length of 95 characters smaller tablets and smartphones are inappropriate Typographic Manual 170 pages is included in a collection of books with Readability the Birth of the Cluster text 1000 pages Typographical Investigations 500 pages and Are Texts Wrongly Written 130 pages intended to shed light on questions about texts typography and reading in relation to questions about philosophy science and learning The two shorter books can be seen as summaries of the two longer ones and they are all written for the general public The starting point is that it is both practically and philosophically interesting that we earlier have missed the opportunity to create a better typographic style a cluster text style Optometrist's Manual Christian Henry Brown, 1921 A Manual and atlas of medical ophthalmoscopy Sir William Richard Gowers, 1879 The Optician's Manual Christian Henry Brown, 1911 The optician's manual, compiled from the serial publ. in The Keystone Charles Henry Brown, 1902 A Manual and Atlas of Medical Ophthalmoscopy William Richard Gowers, 1879

Technical Manual United States. War Department, 1950 Employment Regimes and the Quality of Work Duncan Gallie, 2009 The book makes a major new contribution to the sociology of employment by comparing the quality of working life in European societies with very different institutional systems France Germany Great Britain Spain and Sweden It focuses in particular on skills and skill development opportunities for training the scope for initiative in work the difficulty of combining work and family life and the security of employment Drawing on a range of nationally representative surveys it reveals striking differences in the quality of work in different European countries It also provides for the first time rigorous comparative evidence on the experiences of different types of employee and an assessment of whether there has been a trend over time to greater polarization between a core workforce of relatively privileged employees and a peripheral workforce suffering from cumulative disadvantage It explores the relevance of three influential theoretical perspectives focussing respectively on the common dynamics of capitalist societies differences in production regimes between capitalist societies and differences in the institutional systems of employment regulation It argues that it is the third of these an employment regime perspective that provides the most convincing account of the factors that affect the quality of work in capitalist societies The findings underline the importance of differences in national policies for people s experiences of work and point to the need for a renewal at European level of initiatives for improving the quality of work
