Future Babble Daniel Gardner, 2011-03-17 An award winning journalist uses landmark research to debunk the whole expert prediction industry and explores the psychology of our obsession with future history In 2008 experts predicted gas would hit 20 a gallon it peaked at 4.10 In 1967 they said the USSR would be the world's fastest growing economy by 2000 by 2000 the USSR no longer existed In 1908 it was pronounced that there would be no more wars in Europe we all know how that turned out Face it experts are about as accurate as dart throwing monkeys And yet every day we ask them to predict the future everything from the weather to the likelihood of a terrorist attack Future Babble is the first book to examine this phenomenon showing why our brains yearn for certainty about the future why we are attracted to those who predict it confidently and why it is so easy for us to ignore the trail of outrageously wrong forecasts In this fast paced example packed sometimes darkly hilarious book journalist Dan Gardner shows how seminal research by UC Berkeley professor Philip Tetlock proved that the more famous a pundit is the more likely he is to be right about as often as a stopped watch Gardner also draws on current research in cognitive psychology political science and behavioral economics to discover something quite reassuring The future is always uncertain but the end is not always near The Hedgehog, the Fox, and the Magister's

Pox Stephen Jay Gould, 2003 In his final book and his first full length original title since Full House in 1996 the eminent paleontologist Stephen Jay Gould offers a surprising and nuanced study of the complex relationship between our two great ways of knowing science and the humanities twin realms of knowledge that have been divided against each other for far too long In building his case Gould shows why the common assumption of an inescapable conflict between science and the humanities is false mounts a spirited rebuttal to the ideas that his intellectual rival E O Wilson set forth in his book Consilience and explains why the pursuit of knowledge must always operate upon the bedrock of nature's randomness The Hedgehog the Fox and the Magister's Pox is a controversial discourse rich with facts and observations gathered by one of the most erudite minds of our time Across a Waking Land Roger Morgan-Grenville, 2023-04-06 A veteran nature writer walks the length of Britain in pursuit of spring and of hope Fed up with bleak headlines of biodiversity loss acclaimed nature writer Roger Morgan Grenville sets out on a 1 000 mile walk through a British spring to see whether there are reasons to be hopeful about the natural world His aim is to match the pace at which the oak leaves emerge roughly 20 miles north each day Fighting illness blizzards and his own ageing body he visits every main habitat between Lymington and Cape Wrath in an epic eight week adventure encountering over and over again the kindness of strangers and the inspiring efforts of those fighting heroically for nature With surprising conclusions throughout what unfolds is both life affirming and life changing
