A New Cold War? Nicholas Ross Smith, 2019-06-29 This book examines the contention that current US Russia relations have descended into a New Cold War It examines four key dimensions of the original Cold War the structural the ideological the psychological and the technological and argues that the current US Russia relationship bears little resemblance to the Cold War Presently the international system is transitioning towards multipolarity with Russia a declining power while current ideological differences and threat perceptions are neither as rigid nor as bleak as they once were Ultimately when the four dimensions of analysis are weighed in unison this work argues that the claim of a New Cold War is a hyperbolic assessment of US Russia relations Toward a Cultural History of the Cold War in Turkey Fulvio Bertuccioli, 2024-12-19 Turkey's position as the only Muslim majority member of NATO coupled with its pivotal role in pursuing Western interests in the Middle East and Western Europe has attracted significant scholarly attention particularly in the fields of diplomatic and international relations history In contrast the cultural and ideological dimensions of the Cold War have begun to be studied systematically only in recent years In this light the book is an attempt to present to an international audience some tassels of the complex mosaic of Turkey's Cold War by focusing on its cultural and ideological dimensions Adopting a variety of disciplinary approaches the essays in this collection examine the interconnections between politics and culture the anti communist intellectual landscape and the role of cultural production and the media questioning how the global dynamics of the Cold War affected political cultural and social change in Turkey
