Lansford, Lene Arnett Jensen, 2023-06-15 In this Research Topic our aim is to examine how personal resources related to competencies skills and self perception as well as environmental contextual and relational features of the social contexts of diverse youth directly or indirectly are important to mental health and psychological well being As previous research on young people has mainly focused on youth s weaknesses rather than their strengths our use of Positive Youth Development PYD in working with culturally diverse youth and their well being in this Research Topic is novel We invite contributions from researchers that were initially presented their papers in a meeting that was held by research partners of the Cross National Project on Positive Youth Development CN PYD and who represent an international and multidisciplinary panel of experts on PYD The CN PYD was initiated in 2014 at the University of Bergen and has an ongoing data collection that involves approximately 10 000 minority and majority youth and emerging adults ages 16 to 29 living in Africa Asia Australia Europe New Zealand and South America CN PYD uses a strengths based approach to the conceptualization of youth as resources and agentic which is in opposition to the view of the developmental period of adolescence as being a period inherently fraught with problems and risks The goal of the cross national project is to assess personal strengths and contextual resources considering how these resources come together to facilitate youth thriving and to document how young people make positive and valued contributions to themselves and others We also advance research on the complex interplay between personal and contextual resources and their connections with risk behaviors and problems in essence taking a perspective of the whole child both in terms of strengths and problems

Needs Assessment for a Pre-retirement Programme in the South African Police Service Steven Xolani Diko, 2014 The goal of this study was to conduct a needs assessment for a pre retirement programme in the South African Police Service The need for this study has arisen from the unavailability of a pre retirement programme within the organisation which leads to the exit of employees most probably unprepared for retirement either in terms of financial or social aspects The applied research study was conducted in order to explore the necessity for a pre retirement programme in the South African Police Service A quantitative research approach was utilised in order to gain numerical data that would determine the needs of both serving and retired employees of the South African Police Service Two samples were utilised to collect data The first sample which consisted of 80 units of analysis was for serving employees with a response rate of 100% The second sample which consisted of 35 units of analysis was for retired employees with a response rate of 69% A probability sampling method known as simple random sampling was utilised to select the first sample of respondents A non probability sampling method in the form of purposive sampling was utilised for retired personnel Two well designed questionnaires were utilised to collect data from both serving as well as retired employees The data presented statistically transforming it into figures percentages tables graphs and charts All respondents signed a consent form prior to the commencement of data collection The findings of the study proved beyond reasonable doubt that the lack of a pre retirement programme in the South African Police Service leads to the exit of personnel from the organisation even though they are not prepared for retirement Therefore based on these findings it can be concluded that there is a need for a pre retirement programme for the South African Police Service
