Leadership Andrei A. Lux, 2024-11-01 Authenticity is key for successful leaders they remain true to themselves drawing strength from their diverse constellation of experiences perspectives and heritages Leadership invites you to challenge traditional norms about leader identity and develop your own positive leadership behaviors This book's transformational approach empowers you to critically examine your beliefs values and experiences fostering a reflective self knowledge base an appreciation for multiple perspectives and a sense of personal agency It offers a clear concise overview of leadership emphasizing that there isn't a single best way to lead true leadership emerges from within Your learning is supported by over 30 in text activities and self assessment quizzes designed to reframe your past experiences as leadership interventions and draw out valuable self knowledge This book is ideal for both undergraduate and postgraduate Leadership students Andrei A Lux is a Lecturer in Leadership at the School of Business and Law Edith Cowan University

Learning and Memory David A. Lieberman, 2020-11-05 The first text to integrate behavioral and cognitive approaches to learning and memory this engaging textbook emphasizes human research reflecting the field's evolution Learning and Memory also recognizes the vital contribution of animal research covering all historically important studies Written in a lively and conversational style this second edition encourages students to think critically One example is its exploration of the Rescorla Wagner model the most important theory of conditioning now further streamlined to improve student comprehension Another is the addition of critical thinking questions which encourage students to evaluate their reactions to the material they've read and relate findings to their own lives Research includes an emphasis on practical applications such as treatments for phobias addictions and autism the arguments for and against corporal punishment whether recovered memories and eyewitness testimony should be believed and effective techniques for studying The text concludes with an overview of neural networks and deep learning

Leading Learning Tom O'Donoghue, Simon Clarke, 2009-10-16 The study of educational leadership makes little sense unless it is in relation to who the leaders are how they are leading what is being led and with what effect Based on the premise that learning is at the heart of leadership and that leaders themselves should be learners the Leadership for Learning series explores the connections between educational leadership policy curriculum human resources and accountability Each book in the series approaches its subject matter through a three fold structure of process themes and impact Series Editors Clive Dimmock Mark Brundrett and Les Bell The notion that school transformation is dependent on exceptional leaders is increasingly seen as unrealistic and unsustainable Instead the idea of distributed leadership which promotes the view that all stakeholders have complementary leadership roles to play in enhancing student learning is now being promoted as a more useful framework for understanding schools and how they might be changed Subscribing to the notion of distributed leadership O'Donoghue and Clarke identify two key groups the leaders of learning and the leaders for learning The leaders of learning and the focus of this book are those working at the school level to improve the quality of learning in the classroom such as teachers principals pupils and involved members of the local school community The leaders for learning are the policy makers and administrators whose support is crucial The authors argue that in order to be effective leaders both groups require an understanding of Broad trends in contemporary leadership theory Recent views on learning theory The importance of teachers engaging continually in learning about their practice The significance of creating and sustaining schools as learning organisations Forging links between leadership and learning The book s examination of the shifting approaches to leading learning in contemporary schools is enriched by innovative examples drawn from a range of international contexts Leading Learning will appeal to students involved in masters and doctoral courses relevant to the field and those undertaking programmes of school leadership preparation and development It will also be of interest to academics working in the field of educational leadership and management Methodology of Educational Research and Statistics Mr.
