

Geachte Minister van der Hoeven,

Dear Chairman,

Ladies and Gentlemen,

I am very pleased to be here today for the opening of this Conference on the European Schools in Noordwijk.

The decision to call this Conference was made last October, when the Dutch authorities began chairing the Board of Governors, and, in my view, there is no better place than the Netherlands for it to take place as the Dutch tradition and its long history of freedom of thinking and tolerance can certainly inspire us all during the conference.

The Dutch have always paid specific attention to children and their education. In his book "The Dutch culture during the golden age", Simon Schama, the British historian of Dutch origin describes how, during the 17th century, visitors from other countries were impressed by the tenderness devoted to the children. The way children were treated was characterised by (I quote):

"A balance between education and play, learning and leisure, obedience and freedom, safety and autonomy".

Furthermore, children were prepared to become knowledgeable citizens and their activities were often linked to civic duties.

I believe such principles remain pillars of good education even nowadays.

When Minister van der Hoeven and I met, we had an open discussion about the European School System, and we both felt committed to the fundamental values it holds and to the high quality of the education it provides.

But we both also recognised that the System, in its current format, fails to respond to the needs and evolution of the needs, particularly in view of the enlargement of the European Union as well as of the accrued number of EU Agencies across Member States.

In some of the major sites the overpopulation is already a very urgent problem: there are currently more than 20.000 pupils in all of the European Schools combined. These numbers will increase as colleagues continue to arrive from the "new" Member States. This implies not only an increased number of potential pupils but also an increase in language sections.

Overall, this puts higher demands on the system as a whole to provide mother-tongue education in languages not previously taught. All parents know the importance of keeping the mother tongue alive, not only for keeping links with the home country, but also from a cultural identity point of view.
