What Do Non Executive Directors Do A Very Quick Overview:

The Role of the Non-Executive Director in the Small to Medium Sized Businesses J. Smithson, 2003-11-28 The contribution of a good non Executive Director can make a huge difference to a small to medium sized business But who should fulfil the role Someone steeped in the culture and methods of a large corporation may not be able to make a valuable contribution to the governance of a small company If someone already has a job will they have time to do the role justice This book addresses the question of what the input of the non Executive Director should be and how their strengths can best be accessed and applied The result is a well researched yet personal discussion of what is entailed in theory and in practice in the role of the non Executive Director

Boards at Work : How Directors View their Roles and Responsibilities Philip Stiles, Bernard Taylor, 2001-03-29 Boards of directors are coming under increasing scrutiny in terms of their contribution in monitoring and controlling management particularly in the wake of high profile corporate frauds and failures and also their potential to add value to organizational performance through involvement in the strategy process and through building relationships with key investors Despite the importance of these issues not only to organizations but also arguably to national competitiveness the nature of board activity remains largely a black box clouded by prescriptions prejudices and half truths This book responds to calls for greater scrutiny of boards of directors with an in depth examination of directors of UK organizations drawing on the accounts of directors themselves as to their roles influence and the potential and limits to their power Much work on boards of directors has labelled the board as a rubber stamp for dominant management and non executive directors in particular have been variously described as poodles pet rocks or parsley on the fish Such accounts are rooted in assumptions of board activity that are essentially adversarial in nature and that the solution to the problem of reconciling the interests of managers with those of shareholders is to increase the checks and balances available to the board of directors The findings of this study show that boards in many cases are far more than passive rubber stamps for management and that non executives are encouraged to act as trusted advisers to the executives and the chief executive rather than solely monitors of executive activity Boards are important mechanisms in maintaining the strategic framework of the organization through setting the boundaries of organizational activity The potential of the board members in particular the non executives to fulfil such a mandate depends on a number of factors including ability willingness to engage with the organizational issues and the degree of knowledge they have relevant to the host firm Above all the degree of trust built between members of the board and between the board and key external constituencies is at the heart of effective board behaviour The Independent Director G.

Draft Local Audit Bill Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Draft Local Audit Bill ad Hoc Committee, 2013-01-17 Draft legislation intended to deliver a more efficient and transparent local audit system may not save money potentially undermines the integrity of the audit system and may fail to deliver accountability The principle of independent audit which has guided public sector audit for the last 150 years could be undermined if the bill is not amended Most witnesses criticised the proposed independent auditor panels and felt that they imposed an unnecessary additional bureaucratic burden They expressed strong support for the retention of a central procurement capacity for appointing auditors to local bodies in order to deliver best value on audit fees The legislation also has some gaping holes that pose significant risks Unless stronger safeguards are put into the legislation whistleblowers might not be able to draw attention to serious failures in local governance The Comptroller Auditor General of the National Audit Office should be named in the Bill alongside the appointed auditor as another prescribed person who may be contacted by any whistleblower It should also have a duty to publish detailed mandatory guidance to accompany the code and to report annually to Parliament on the Code's effectiveness Lastly there is great concern that the draft Bill makes no provision for comprehensive like for like value for money comparisons which would enable informed judgements about the way local bodies spend taxpayer's money It is essential that the Bill is re drafted to include a systematic process for benchmarking and like for like comparisons between public bodies in the new regime

Monetary Policy Committee of the Bank of England Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Treasury Committee,2007-09-18 Monetary Policy Committee of the Bank of England Ten years on twelfth report of session 2006 07 Vol 1 Report together with formal minutes oral and written Evidence The FSA's Report Into the Failure of RBS Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Treasury Committee,2012-10-19 This report identifies issues arising from the FSA s report into the failure of RBS that may merit further legislative or regulatory change The report also considers the value of the reporting process for understanding the causes of RBS s failure and for ensuring that appropriate lessons have been learnt The Government should include an explicit requirement for the Prudential Regulation Authority to approve major bank acquisitions and mergers in forthcoming legislation and the Treasury should report on the legislative or other changes it proposes to make to the current regime regulating acquisitions in the banking sector The Bank of England has still to produce a comprehensive review of the Bank s role in and response to the crisis Any lessons learned will only be available at a very late stage in Parliament s consideration of the Financial Services Bill when incorporation of them into legislation may be more difficult The Parliamentary Commission on Banking Standards should examine the PRA s approach to banking supervision The Government should consult on whether additional legislation is required to ensure that directors or other senior executives of failed banks cannot work in other regulated industries in future or to make the system more certain The Committee supports attempts to remedy the misalignment of incentives embedded within the financial services framework The introduction of strict liability would be a major change to the existing legal framework and would require full public debate The Parliamentary Commission on Banking Standards should examine this and other options Auditors Great Britain.
