

CASE STUDIES

There are a great many ways of writing a case study, so starting one can be frustrating just figuring out what format to use.

For our case studies, the focus is on how in-mold labeling or in-mold decorating solved a technical or business problem in the packaging or durable products industry. There is no requirement to divulge proprietary information but do consider that your case study may be read by a potential customer. A well written case study is an excellent opportunity to show prospective customers that your company has mastered IML/IMD and can deliver cost effective results for them.

Ideally your case study should not be a long winded hard sell. It should be two or three pages and 500 – 900 words, although some tend to run longer. Use graphics to illustrate your information but don't go overboard.

IMDA has developed a final format that shows off our case studies to best advantage.

How to Structure Your Case Study

The typical case study has four parts:

1. Situation, Background or Introduction – This is the opening section that describes the reason for the case study, including the business or product line, product usage, current decoration method and market position. Here is where you set the stage for the parts to come next.
2. Problem – This section states the main problem which needs to be resolved, such as failure of the current decorating method, inadequate service life, excessive costs, etc. Previous attempts at solution that failed can also be addressed here.
3. Solution – This is the heart of the document. It describes the solution in detail, how IML or IMD solved the problem, what changes were made to the manufacturing process, the impact on the cost and end use of the product, methodologies and other factors that contributed to the overall deployment. Some case studies include sidebars, charts and graphs to illustrate key points.
4. Evaluation – In this section recap the main benefits of the solution and the impact on the product's value and function.

Support for the conceptual design stage of effective and resource-efficient offerings Sergio Brambila, 2020-10-20 Human activities in the form of production and consumption have increased to an all time high In many cases this increase has resulted in environmental problems such as waste and pollution that in turn affect our health and way of living Societies have proposed different measures to address such environmental problems These range from different waste treatment technologies to alternative business models policy measures and lifecycle thinking in the design of products to mention but a few In this research the focus is on supporting early design activities of what is often called the conceptual design stage with the objective to provide effective and resource efficient offerings The early design activities considered here are planning analysis and evaluation Design researchers have largely supported these three activities with a variety of methods and tools However previous research has shown that design support coming from academia has had a low uptake in industry In this regard the aim of this research is to propose not only useful but also usable support for design practitioners during the conceptual design stage This research is carried out in the manufacturing sector in Sweden where selected companies expressed an interest in collaborating with academia to address more thoroughly effective and resource efficient offerings To better match company needs and research from academia this research took a pragmatic and cross disciplinary approach This research approach along with literature reviews semi structured interviews workshops and questionnaires shows different ways in which support can be made more useful and usable The main gap addressed here is that the knowledge and the related skills of the user of the support have not been sufficiently explored The results include requirements of the user of the support proposed methods and tools derived from the requirements identified and most importantly the knowledge and skills needed by the user of the support The main message of this research is that support could be expanded from methods and tools to include knowledge and skills needed by design practitioners the users of support The flow of support from academia to industry could also be reinforced in a two way flow through a pragmatic and cross disciplinary approach to first and foremost address design practitioners needs. Månskliga aktiviteter i form av produktion och konsumtion har aldrig varit högre. Denna knipning verkar tidig och i många fall lätt till miljöproblem som avfall och föroreningar vilka i sin tur påverkar vår hälsa och levnadssätt. För att möta dessa miljöproblem har olika tekniska lösningar utvecklats som tekniker för avfallshantering, alternativa affärsmodeller, policy och livscykeldesign för att minska miljöpåverkan. Fokus i forskningen som presenteras i denna avhandling är på tidigare designaktiviteter vilka ofta kallas det konceptuella designstadiet och som syftar till att ta fram resurseffektiva erbjudanden. Detta steg behandlas här genom att närmare undersöka designaktiviteterna, planering, analys och utvärdering. Designforskare har till stor del ställt dessa tre aktiviteter med en mängd olika metoder och verktyg. Emellertid visar tidigare forskning att designstadiet för när akademin har ett lågt upptag i industrin. Syftet med denna forskning är därför att föreslå ett användbart steg som också är användbart för utövare under det konceptuella designstadiet. För att uppnå detta genomförs forskningen inom tillverkningssektorn i Sverige där deltagande företag uttryckt ett intresse av att samarbeta med akademin avseende resurseffektiva erbjudanden. För att bättre matcha företagets behov med forskning från akademin antas en pragmatisk och tvärvetenskaplig strategi. Denna strategi tillsammans med litteratur, semistrukturerade intervjuer, workshops och enkäter visar hur stadiet i det konceptuella designstadiet kan bli mer användbart och användbart. Den huvudsakliga forskningsluckan som tas upp här är att kunskap och relaterade förmågor hos användaren av stadiet inte har undersökts tillräckligt. Resultatet ger en beskrivning av kraven på de steg som användaren behöver följa för att välja på metoder och verktyg som baseras på de identifierade kraven och viktigast av allt den kunskap och de förmågor som användaren av stadiet behöver ha. Huvudbudskapet är att stadiet kan utvidgas från att omfatta metoder och verktyg till att även inkludera behovet av kunskap och förmågor hos designutövaren vilket vill sätta användarna av supporten. Stadiet från den akademiska världen till industrin kan också förstärkas genom att bli ett tvärvetenskapligt steg som med en pragmatisk och tvärvetenskaplig strategi först och främst adresserar användarens behov.

ETA Interchange United States. Employment and Training Administration, 1975. First International Symposium on Urban Development: Koya as a Case Study F. M.

Khoshnaw, 2013-12-16 This book contains papers presented at the International Symposium on Urban Development held in the Kurdistan region of Iraq organised by the Faculty of Engineering at Koya University. The Kurdistan region is rich in oil, gas, mineral resources and underground water. However, until recently, the political and security issues were such that the region was unable to take advantage of those resources. Nowadays, Kurdistan is emerging as one of the fastest developing areas in the Middle East with its universities playing a major role in this process. The aim of the meeting was to focus the research carried out at academic and government institutions with the needs of society. The International Symposium papers included in this volume cover a wide range of topics and are written by people with different specialisations and perspectives.
