Keeping a Watchful Eye Joel D. Aberbach, 2001-06-29 Congressional oversight activity has increased dramatically since the early 1970s Congressional committees now spend more of their time holding hearings to review the activities of federal agencies and committee staff members are busy collecting information about what goes on during program implementation This book examines the reasons behind the surprising growth of congressional oversight Using original data collected for this project Joel D Aberbach documents the increase in oversight activity and links it to changes in the political environment He explores the political purposes served by oversight the techniques Congress uses to uncover information about the activities of the federal bureaucracy and the reasons why topics get on the oversight agenda He concludes that even though the U S government system was not designed with a large administrative sector in mind its ability to expose bureaucratic behavior to public scrutiny is impressive and the Congress plays a vital role in this endeavor Duty Afloat for Engineering Specialists United States. Graphic Color Corporation , 1995 Liberalism and Affirmative Obligation Patricia Smith, 1998-11-26 The scope of affirmative obligation is a point of contention among liberals Some see affirmative obligations required by social justice as incompatible with a strong commitment to individual freedom The task before the moderate liberal is then to consider what a consistently liberal view of affirmative obligation would have to be in order to accommodate liberal commitments to freedom and justice and also account for long standing institutions that are central to liberal democratic society In this book Patricia Smith argues that this can be achieved by reconstructing the liberal doctrine of positive and negative duty She offers a careful consideration of these elements of liberal principles as they relate to affirmative obligation Through an innovative analysis of the institutions of family and contract Smith develops the idea of duties of membership as preferable to natural duties to explain family obligation and as needed to supplement contractual duties to explain professional obligation This idea is then applied to the problem of justifying political obligation She argues that membership obligations implied in cooperative endeavor must supplement obligations of consent that are central to liberal theory This is deftly illustrated through a state of nature theory that includes community membership eliminating atomistic individualism while maintaining consonance with what Smith calls cooperative individualism The resulting view of liberal individualism is consistent complete and capable of handling long standing liberal institutions while taking seriously the demands of affirmative obligations Smiths clear articulation of a liberal view of affirmative obligation finds a middle
