The Nazi Holocaust. Part 3: The "Final Solution". Volume 1

Michael Robert Marrus, 2015-06-03 This edition is the first of its kind to offer a basic collection of facsimile English language historical articles on all aspects of the extermination of the European Jews. A total of 300 articles from 84 journals and collections allows the reader to gain an overview of this field. The edition both provides access to the immense rich array of scholarly articles published after 1960 on the history of the Holocaust and encourages critical assessment of conflicting interpretations of these horrifying events. The series traces Nazi persecution of Jews before the implementation of the Final Solution, demonstrates how the Germans coordinated anti-Jewish activities in conquered territories and sheds light on the victims in concentration camps, ending with the liberation of the concentration camp victims and articles on the trials of war criminals. The publications covered originate from the years 1950 to 1987. Included are authors such as Jakob Katz, Saul Friedländer, Eberhard Jäckel, Bruno Bettelheim, and Herbert A. Strauss. The Historiography of the Holocaust D.

Stone, 2004-01-20 This collection of essays by leading scholars in their fields provides the most comprehensive and up-to-date survey of Holocaust historiography available. Covering both long-established historical disputes as well as research questions and methodologies that have developed in the last decade, this massive growth in Holocaust Studies, this collection will be of enormous benefit to students and scholars alike. NLT Life Application Study Bible, Third Edition, Large Print

Asian Classics on the Victorian Bookshelf Alexander Bubb, 2023-03-14

The interest among Victorian readers in classical literature from Asia has been greatly underestimated. The popularity of the Arabian Nights and the Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam is well documented. Yet this was also an era in which freethinkers consulted the Quran in which schoolchildren were given abridgements of the Ramayana to read in which names like Kalidasa and Firdusi were carved on the facades of public libraries and in which women's book clubs discussed Japanese poetry. But for the most part such readers were not consulting the specialist publications of scholarly orientalists. What then were the translations that catalysed these intercultural encounters? Based on a unique methodology marrying translation theory with empirical techniques developed by historians of reading, this book shines light for the first time on the numerous amateur translators or popularizers who were responsible for making these texts accessible and disseminating them to the Victorian general readership. Asian Classics on the Victorian Bookshelf explains the process whereby popular translations were written, published, distributed to bookshops and libraries and ultimately consumed by readers. It uses the working papers and correspondence of popularizers to demonstrate their techniques and motivations while the responses of contemporary readers are traced through the pencil marginalia they left behind in dozens of original copies. In spite of their typically limited knowledge of source languages, Asian Classics argues that popularizers produced versions more respectful of the complexity, cultural difference and fundamental untranslatability of Asian texts than the professional orientalists whose work they were often adapting. The responses of their readers likewise frequently deviated from interpretive norms and it is proposed that this combination of eccentric translators and unorthodox readers triggered flights of translation whereby historical individuals can be seen to escape the hegemony of orientalist forms of knowledge.
