Donna E Alvermann University of Georgia

Dialects at School Jeffrey Reaser,Carolyn Temple Adger,Walt Wolfram,Donna Christian,2017-05-12 Like its predecessor Dialects in Schools and Communities this book illuminates major language related issues that educational practitioners confront such as responding to dialect related features in students speech and writing teaching Standard English teaching students about dialects and distinguishing dialect difference from language disorders It approaches these issues from a practical perspective rooted in sociolinguistic research with a focus on the research base for accommodating dialect differences in schools Expanded coverage includes research on teaching and learning and attention to English language learners All chapters include essential information about language variation language attitudes and principles of handling dialect differences in schools classroom based samples illustrating the application of these principles and an annotated resources list for further reading The text is supported by a Companion Website www.routledge.com/cw/Reaser providing additional resources including activities discussion questions and audio visual enhancements that illustrate important information and or pedagogical approaches Comprehensive and authoritative Dialects at School reflects both the relevant research bases in linguistics and education and educational practices concerning language variation The problems and examples included are authentic coming from the authors own research observations and interactions in public school classrooms and feedback in workshops Highlights include chapters on oral language and reading and writing in dialectally diverse classrooms as well as a chapter on language awareness for students offering a clear and compelling overview of how teachers can inspire students to learn more about language variation including their own community language patterns An inventory of dialect features in the Appendix organizes and expands on the structural descriptions presented in the chapters

Navigating Teacher Education in Complex and Uncertain Times Carmen I. Mercado, 2019-04-04 Carmen I Mercado draws on four decades of seminal research and theory on how American children who come from homes where languages other than English are spoken learn to read and to write in school to reveal aspects of locally responsive planning and adaptations that should be central to any teacher education program that hopes to serve its unique local population base responsibly Mercado uses a range of theoretical lenses particularly those surrounding critical theory the approach designed to deconstruct power relationships in society to capture and explain the complexities of the teaching learning process making visible institutional social and political influences clear She explores an extensive collection of tools and resources for teaching to explore how educators can inform their thinking and shape their own practices to broaden access to people and resources and to influence classroom instruction as school populations becomes increasingly diverse on a global scale through immigration Mercado also shows how self study has been a key aspect of her program s evolution suggesting that teacher education should be informed by teacher educators own investigations into their own programs and processes that each teacher educator ought to be an active reinventor of her own program based on reflection on current data Mercado sensitively draws together the technical and emotional dimensions of learning to teach acknowledging that critical theory can bring up deep often uncomfortable feelings of anger guilt resentment and other responses to unfair conditions However since schools are designed as places of opportunity facing these responses is essential at a time with the feelings of antagonism that characterize the present day world and its conflictual social groups Mercado offers the opportunity to address these facets of educational process in compelling informed ways
