Making Changes in STEM Education Julia M. Williams, 2023-06-02 Many science engineering technology and math STEM faculty wish to make an academic change at the course department college or university level but they lack the specific tools and training that can help them achieve the changes they desire

Making Changes in STEM Education The Change Maker's Toolkit is a practical guide based on academic change research and designed to equip STEM faculty and administrators with the skills necessary to accomplish their academic change goals. Each tool is categorized by a dominant theme in change work such as opportunities for change, strategic vision, communication, teamwork, stakeholders and partnerships, and is presented in context by the author herself, a change leader in STEM. In addition, the author provides interviews with STEM faculty and leaders who are engaged in their own change projects, offering additional insight into how the tools can be applied to a variety of educational contexts. The book is ideal for STEM faculty who are working to change their courses, curricula, departments and campuses, and STEM administrators who lead such change work to support their faculties, as well as graduate students in STEM who plan to enter an academic position upon graduation and expect to work on academic change projects.

AI and Humanity Illah Reza Nourbakhsh, Jennifer Keating, 2020-03-10

An examination of the implications for society of rapidly advancing artificial intelligence systems, combining a humanities perspective with technical analysis, includes exercises and discussion questions. AI and Humanity provides an analytical framing and a common language for understanding the effects of technological advances in artificial intelligence on society. Coauthored by a computer scientist and a scholar of literature and cultural studies, it is unique in combining a humanities perspective with technical analysis, using the tools of literary explication to examine the societal impact of AI systems. It explores the historical development of these technologies, moving from the apparently benign Roomba to the considerably more sinister semi-autonomous weapon system Harpy. The book is driven by an exploration of the cultural and etymological roots of a series of keywords relevant to both AI and society. Works examined range from Narrative of the Life of Frederick Douglass (given a close reading for its themes of literacy and agency) to Simon Head's critique of the effects of surveillance and automation on the Amazon labor force in Mindless. Originally developed as a textbook for an interdisciplinary humanities/science course at Carnegie Mellon, AI and Humanity offers discussion questions, exercises, including journal writing and concept mapping, and reading lists. A companion website provides updated resources and a portal to a video archive of interviews with AI scientists, sociologists, literary theorists, and others.

Anthropology and Climate Change Susan A. Crate, Mark Nuttall, 2023-11-30

In this third edition of Anthropology and Climate Change, Susan Crate and Mark Nuttall offer a collection of chapters that examine how anthropologists work on climate change issues with their collaborators, both in academic research and practicing contexts, and discuss new developments in contributions to policy and adaptation at different scales. Building on the first edition's pioneering focus on anthropology's burgeoning contribution to climate change research, policy, and action, as well as the second edition's focus on transformations and new directions for anthropological work on climate change, this new edition reveals the extent to which anthropologists' contributions are considered to be critical by climate scientists, policymakers, affected communities, and other rights holders. Drawing on a range of ethnographic and policy issues, this book highlights the work of anthropologists in the full range of contexts as scholars educators and practitioners from academic institutions to government bodies international science agencies and foundations working in interdisciplinary research teams and with community research partners The contributions to this new edition showcase important new academic research as well as applied and practicing approaches They emphasize human agency in the archaeological record the rapid development in the last decade of community based and community driven research and disaster research provide rich ethnographic insight into worldmaking practices interventions and collaborations and discuss how and in what ways anthropologists work in policy areas and engage with regional and global assessments This new edition is essential for established scholars and for students in anthropology and a range of other disciplines including environmental studies as well as for practitioners who engage with anthropological studies of climate change in their work A Guide to Teaching in the Active Learning Classroom Paul Baeppler,J. D. Walker,D. Christopher Brooks,Kem Saichaie,Christina I.

Petersen,2023-07-03 While Active Learning Classrooms or ALCs offer rich new environments for learning they present many new challenges to faculty because among other things they eliminate the room s central focal point and disrupt the conventional seating plan to which faculty and students have become accustomed The importance of learning how to use these classrooms well and to capitalize on their special features is paramount The potential they represent can be realized only when they facilitate improved learning outcomes and engage students in the learning process in a manner different from traditional classrooms and lecture halls This book provides an introduction to ALCs briefly covering their history and then synthesizing the research on these spaces to provide faculty with empirically based practical guidance on how to use these unfamiliar spaces effectively Among the questions this book addresses are How can instructors mitigate the apparent lack of a central focal point in the space What types of learning activities work well in the ALCs and take advantage of the affordances of the room How can teachers address familiar classroom management challenges in these unfamiliar spaces If assessment and rapid feedback are critical in active learning how do they work in a room filled with circular tables and no central focus point How do instructors balance group learning with the needs of the larger class How can students be held accountable when many will necessarily have their backs facing the instructor How can instructors evaluate the effectiveness of their teaching in these spaces This book is intended for faculty preparing to teach in or already working in this new classroom environment for administrators planning to create ALCs or experimenting with provisionally designed rooms and for faculty developers helping teachers transition to using these new spaces The Game Writing Guide Anna
