Advancing Social Purpose in Organizations: An Interdisciplinary Perspective Monica Thiel, Gabriele Giorgi, Antonio Ariza-Montes, Nicola Mucci, 2021-08-17 Forum on Investing in Young Children Globally National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Health and Medicine Division, Board on Children, Youth, and Families, Board on Global Health, Forum on Investing in Young Children Globally, 2017-07-21 Focusing on young children in a global context is an approach to end the cycle of poverty and improve the well being of nations Improving well being necessarily begins with core elements such as health education nutrition and social protection many efforts to improve child development in the first decade of life focus on areas to meet young children s basic needs Young children living in low resourced settings are vulnerable to developmental and educational risk factors such as stunting and undernutrition disease caregiver depression lack of access to quality preprimary and primary education disabilities poverty and societal and familial violence While each of these areas is important for children s growth and development there are potential increased benefits from integrated programs and coordinated policies that address more than one of these areas simultaneously particularly for children living in low resourced communities An integrated and coordinated all system approach may be the best way to guarantee that children will have the prerequisites for healthy development The Forum on Investing in Young Children Globally was established with the goal of integrating knowledge with action in regions around the world to inform evidence based strategic investments in young children birth through age 8 The forum held nine workshops across five continents over 3 years The goal was to learn from experiences in multiple regions and engage in culturally embedded dialogue This publication summarizes the key themes from the presentations and discussions of the workshops Forest Products Research and Development Organizations in a Worldwide Setting, 2007 Located in 23 countries 40 forest products research and development organizations outside the United States were reviewed in 2004 and 2005 The intent was to obtain a better understanding of how such organizations are structured and administered and their performance judged Investing over 600 million annually the 40 organizations employed 7 000 to 7 500 scientists and supporting staff Especially noteworthy about the organizations are the many ways in which they identify themselves such as institutes laboratories centers their long history of sustained involvement in forest products research and their movement from public to private ownership whole or in part The distinction between public and private sector responsibility for research is blurry with these organizations as often they have public sponsorship yet private operation and management They offer a wide range of services to clients yet have complex ownership and partnering arrangements Their organizational structures are seemingly scrambled with forest product research subunits located within larger parent organizations with broad multisector research responsibilities and specialized services to a single major group of clients These organizations have an intense desire to meet the needs of clients and feature the following synthesis of existing information as an important service fees charged for services provided strategic interest in clients located throughout the world educational and degree granting activities multiple sources of income and revenue diverse standards for measuring performance adept response to broad economic social changes multiple location of physical facilities and differing degrees of publicly available information describing mission and operation of organizations

Modern Community Mental Health Kenneth Yeager, David Cutler, Dale Svendsen, Grayce M. Sills, 2013-02-05 Landmark events such as the 50th anniversary of the Eisenhower Commission Report and the same anniversary of the Community Mental Health Act helped launch the community mental health movement The Rehabilitation Act of 1973 and the President's New Freedom Commission have continued this work by establishing funding sources and highlighting the importance of recovery and excellence in care Modern Community Mental Health An Interdisciplinary Approach integrates each of the key concepts contained within the presidential reports and landmark legislation into the context of today's community service delivery system This pathfinding textbook promises to revolutionize community mental health training by responding to the realities of modern health care delivery systems presenting an integrated interdisciplinary paradigm of care Extraordinarily broad in coverage it will open a door of possibilities to those caring for the mentally ill in the community Recognizing that community based services must be truly collaborative in order to be effective and efficient the editors have assembled a cast of contributors from among the brightest lights in community practice Chapter authors who are currently doing interdisciplinary work successfully on a daily basis will collaborate on writing teams to offer their insight into the problems and triumphs that are part of this approach They will cover not only macro issues such as the economics of behavioral healthcare reimbursement models and quality improvement but the specific skills necessary for competent practice such as treatment planning clinical documentation risk management and partnering with members of a team that may include social workers psychiatrists psychologists and nurses Twenty additional chapters will provide detailed roadmaps to practices and programs that have been shown to be effective when delivered in a community setting such as supported employment assertive community treatment ACT teams crisis intervention training CIT family psychoeducation and supported housing and will be grounded in educational benchmarks healthcare reform opportunities and cultural competencies By definition community mental health practice is never static As communities change the profession changes and in recent years changes in funding have drastically impacted the system of care We need empirically supported interventions to include the voice of the consumers and their families and have a way to educate current and future professionals so that we all truly work together

Handbook of Transformative Cooperation Sandy Kristin Piderit, 2007 Transformative Cooperation TC presents new ways for individuals and organizations to partner to create a more sustainable future and take people to a higher stage of moral development This handbook invites readers to consider how businesses can partner with organizations in other sectors of society including governments and nonprofits to address global concerns and improve the lives of all It documents the need for and early examples of cooperative efforts that have transformed the relationships between corporations and the communities in which their employees live and work The editors begin by issuing a call for TC explaining the economic and social reasons for working across traditional organization national and international boundaries The book then goes on to explain the dynamics of transformative cooperation exploring the leadership characteristics that facilitate the transformation and its social benefits Throughout this handbook the editors present some of the best designs in transformative cooperation and conclude by explaining transformative cooperation as a generative possibility Overall the editors and contributors argue that TC is about the search for the best in people their organizations and the world around them
