

Lesson - 3

Proposal/Offer & Acceptance

Definition: Sec.2 (a)

“When one person signifies to another his willingness to do or to abstain from doing anything, with a view to obtaining the assent of the other to such act or abstinence he is said to make a proposal”.

From the above definition of proposal, the following features emerge: -

It must be an expression of willingness to do or to abstain from doing something - Thus, it may involve a 'positive act' or an abstinence' (refrain from doing).

Example

- Positive Act: 'A' offers to sell his car to 'B' for Rs. 1,00,000
- Abstinence: 'A' offers not to file a suit against 'B' if the latter pays 'A' the outstanding amount of Rs. 1,00,000.

1. It must be made to another person. There can be no 'proposal' by a person to himself
2. It must be made with a view to obtain the assent of that other person to such act or abstinence. Thus, a mere Statement of intention is not a proposal.
3. The offer must be definite
4. The offer must be communicated to the offeree.
5. The person making the offer is called the 'offeror' or the 'proposer' and the person to whom it is made is called the 'offeree'.

Kinds of Offer

Express / Implied

An offer, which is expressed by words, written or spoken, is called an express offer. An offer expressed by conduct is an 'implied offer'.

Example

Express Offer: 'A' offers to sell his car to 'B' for Rs.1,00,000.

Implied Offer: When a transport company runs a bus on a particular route, it is an implied offer from Transport Company to carry passengers for a certain fare.

Specific / General

An offer made to a specific person or a particular group of persons is called a Specific offer. It can be accepted only by that person or that 'particular group to whom it is made.

Example

'A' offered to buy certain goods from 'B'. The offer is to a definite person 'B' Therefore, a purchase from 'X' instead of 'B', will not give rise to a valid contract (Boulton Vs Jones)

An offer made to the world at large or public in general is a general offer. It can be accepted by anyone who fulfils the terms of the offer (Carlill Vs Carbolic Smoke Ball Co).
