Instructions

This quiz is due on Mar 12 11:59pm.

For this Quiz answer the questions using excel or a financial calculator. If you use a spreadsheet for your calculations, this will be good practice for your final exam. You will be required to solve similar problems on the final exam using a financial calculator or spreadsheet.

You have 3 attempts on this quiz, highest score counts. There is no time limit. The correct answer will be available the next day.

Your answers should be accurate to the nearest cent (unless advised otherwise) for all monetary amounts and to 6 decimal places (not your calculator to six decimal places) for all other answers (unless advised otherwise). Do NOT write unit symbols ($, %), squares or powers in your AP in the blank answers. It is highly recommended that you document (write or type) your answers to the question showing the equations used and the calculator steps followed in a separate document. This will allow you to check your work against the alignment answers in Canvas and assist you in future studying for the midterm and final exams. If on complex problems, it is also useful to draw a timeline to modeling the cash flows.
