Environmental Interventions in Healthcare explores the individual's needs within the environment, examines the relationship between disability and a variety of traditional and cutting edge technologies, and presents a humanistic discussion of Technology Environment Intervention (TEI). Written by a multidisciplinary team of authors, this text introduces readers to a variety of conceptual practice models and the clinical reasoning perspectives. It also provides insight into how designers go about solving human tech problems, discusses best practices for both face to face and virtual teams, and looks at the psychological, sociocultural, and cognitive factors behind the development and provision of assistive technologies. Examines a wide range of technologies and environmental interventions. Demonstrates how a better understanding of the complexity of human interaction with both the physical and social environment can lead to better use of technology. Explores the future of technology and research in TEI. Complete with a range of learning features such as keywords, case studies, and review questions, this book is ideal for undergraduate and graduate students in occupational therapy and other related health professions, as well as those undertaking certification and board examinations.

Reconstruction, Replication and Re-enactment in the Humanities and Social Sciences Sven Dupré, Anna Harris, Julia Kursell, Patricia Lulof, Maartje Stols-Witlox, 2025-10-01. Performative methods are playing an increasingly prominent role in research into historical production processes, materials, bodily knowledge, and sensory skills, and in forms of education and public engagement in classrooms and museums. This book offers for the first time sustained interdisciplinary reflections on performative methods, variously known as Reconstruction, Replication, and Re-enactment (RRR) practices across the fields of history of science, archaeology, art history, conservation, musicology, and anthropology. Each of these fields has distinct histories, approaches, tools, and research questions. Researchers in the historical disciplines have used reconstructions to learn about the materials and practices of the past, while anthropologists and ethnographers have more often studied the re-enactments themselves, participating in these performances as engaged observers. In this book, authors bring their experiences of RRR practices within their discipline into conversation with RRR practices in other disciplines, providing a basis for interdisciplinary cross-fertilization.

Visualizing Technology, Complete Debra Geoghan, Author Supplement, 2013-04-11. This is the eBook of the printed book and may not include any media, website access codes, or print supplements that may come packaged with the bound book. Researching Trust and Health Julie Brownlie,Alexandra Greene,Alexandra

Howson,2008-05-16 There is currently a lively debate ongoing in society about the nature of trust and the conditions necessary to establish and sustain it Given the role of trust in bridging uncertainty it is perhaps not surprising that as our consciousness of risk has increased the role and nature of trust in social practices has come under growing scrutiny These developments are particularly relevant to health because participation in health practices is arguably based on and engendered through trust There is thus a need for empirically based research which intelligently unravels this complexity to support all stakeholders in the health arena This multidisciplinary volume of work addresses this gap by contributing substantively to the exploration of trust in the experience practice and organization of health It offers an overview of recent scholarship based on empirical research which explores the significance of trust in relation to key health related issues At the same time this text examines conceptual themes in relation to trust more generally including the relationship between trust and auditing consent expert knowledges and social capital

Competition Law and Policy in Digital Markets Maria Ioannidou,Bingwan Xiong,2025-03-01

The advent of digital technologies has transformed markets and resulted in unprecedented levels of market concentration with a handful of digital giants controlling the provision of many goods and services Against these changing market dynamics Competition Law and Policy in Digital Markets A Comparative Analysis of the EU and China provides a critical comparative analysis of the application of competition law in digital markets in the EU and China The book deciphers how these two key competition law jurisdictions apply their respective competition laws against different digital giants and the potential impact of those applications in the evolution of digital markets This book first maps the characteristics of digital markets and the challenges they raise for competition law enforcement and second critically discusses decisional practice and policy developments in the EU and China The discussion identifies potential competition law problems in the digital economy and covers various types of anti competitive conduct at the intersection of consumer data protection and competition law It also identifies contentious cases querying whether competition law can act as a gap filler or whether other regulatory tools are better suited to address such problems Pioneering and timely Competition Law and Policy in Digital Markets examines the challenges posed to competition law enforcement by these new dynamics The similarities and divergent approaches between competition law enforcers in the EU and China are examined in a bid to contribute to a more transparent debate between the two

Construction of Disciplines Christopher Whitehead,2013-11-20 Museums and museum politics were important elements in the development of the disciplines of Archaeology and Art History in nineteenth century Britain Here Christopher Whitehead explores some of the key debates and events which led to the conceptual differentiation and physical separation of archaeological and artistic material culture looking especially at the ways in which objects and histories were contested within museum politics For example in the 1850s the status of Egyptian antiquities as art or archaeology was keenly debated and this related closely to questions about which kinds of museum should house them and the possible histories and epistemologies in which they might figure This concise study serves as a basis for a discussion of the continued intellectual legacy of this for our understanding management and presentation of the past in the museum and in curricula It is argued that by understanding the politics and circumstances through which the two disciplines were delimited and distinguished from one another we may be able to glimpse retrospectively the possibility of alternative art histories and alternative archaeologies Tekkie Visions: Crafting Your Future
