The American Scholar Essay Summary:

The American Scholar Ralph Waldo Emerson, 2020-09-28 I greet you on the re commencement of our literary year Our anniversary is one of hope and perhaps not enough of labor We do not meet for games of strength or skill for the recitation of histories tragedies and odes like the ancient Greeks for parliaments of love and poesy like the Troubadours nor for the advancement of science like our cotemporaries in the British and European capitals Thus far our holiday has been simply a friendly sign of the survival of the love of letters amongst a people too busy to give to letters any more As such it is precious as the sign of an indestructible instinct Perhaps the time is already come when it ought to be and will be something else when the sluggard intellect of this continent will look from under its iron lids and fill the postponed expectation of the world with something better than the exertions of mechanical skill Our day of dependence our long apprenticeship to the learning of other lands draws to a close The millions that around us are rushing into life cannot always be fed on the sere remains of foreign harvests Events actions arise that must be sung that will sing themselves Who can doubt that poetry will revive and lead in a new age as the star in the constellation Harp which now flames in our zenith astronomers announce shall one day be the pole star for a thousand years The American Scholar Ralph Waldo Emerson, 1992-03-01 Bonded Leather binding

Introduction to the English Classics William Peterfield Trent, Charles Lane Hanson, William Tenney Brewster, 1911

James Carey Eve Stryker Munson, Catherine A. Warren, 1997 James Carey scholar media critic and teacher of journalists almost single handedly established the importance of defining a cultural perspective when analyzing communications Interspersing Carey's major essays with articles exploring his central themes and their importance this collection provides a critical introduction to the work of this significant figure In James Carey A Critical Reader sever scholars who have been influenced by him consider his work and how it has affected the development of media studies Carey has examined the roles the media and the academy have played in creating and maintaining a public sphere as well as the ways technology helps or hinders that project Carey's themes range from the strains on democracy and drawbacks of technology to the critique of journalism and the politics of academe A defense of Currie's governmental interest analysis Academie De Droit

International de la Haye, Enemy Images in American History Ragnhild Fiebig-von Hase, Ursula Lehmkuhl, 1998-01-01 It seems to be a tenet of the human condition to perceive others as different and potentially hostile In nearly all societies stereotypes are developed to stigmatize suspected enemies within and without The American case is particularly interesting in this respect because American society consists of nothing but others to be open to others and welcome those who are different is one of the basic tenets of the country However this principle often conflicts with the need to integrate all these strangers into a homogeneous governable society which causes the formation of hostile stereotypes of certain ethnic groups that do not fit in The authors in this volume look at the development of these enemy images which form a fairly consistent pattern from the period of the American Revolution to the post World War II era In doing so they focus on the question of to what extent these enemy images influence the formulation and outcome of foreign domestic and immigration policies

How to Write about Ralph Waldo Emerson Fabian Ironside, 2009 Offers advice on writing essays about the works of Ralph Waldo Emerson and lists sample topics Anton Wilhelm Amo's Philosophical Dissertations on Mind and Body , 2020-06-26 Anton Wilhelm Amo c 1703 after 1752 was the first African philosopher in the modern period to write in the European philosophical tradition and study and teach in European universities At the dawn of the eighteenth century while still a small boy he was sent from his home in present day Ghana to Amsterdam From there he was sent to Germany as a court attendant of Duke Anton Ulrich of Braunschweig Wolfenb ttel and was subsequently baptized in 1708 He matriculated at the University of Halle in 1727 where he defended a law thesis He then studied and taught at the University of Wittenberg before returning to Halle to teach and later also teaching in Jena He returned to West Africa permanently in 1747 Though much attention on and study of Amo has previously focused on his symbolic importance as a historical figure the first African philosopher in modern Europe Stephen Menn and Justin E H Smith argue for a serious engagement with Amo s work as a philosopher In an extensive introduction they contextualize his biography and writing within the surrounding intellectual and historical environment and discuss and analyze his arguments in conversation with other philosophers of the time This volume contains his two Wittenberg philosophical dissertations On the Impassivity of the Human Mind and the Philosophical

Disputation containing a Distinct Idea of those Things that Pertain either to the Mind or to our Living and Organic Body both first published in 1734 The editors present the original Latin texts with side by side English translations and detailed explanatory annotations In centering Amo s philosophical thought and making it accessible to more students and scholars Menn and Smith establish the originality and significance of Amo s rigorous contributions to the mind body debate of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries
