Recollections and Reflections Athanasio Dzadagu, 2016-04-08 This book is an autobiographical account by Athanasio Dzadagu a former Zimbabwean Catholic priest outlining and reflecting on the experiences he had in Britain during the period from 1996-2014 While indeed the book is largely about the author's own experiences as an immigrant an African and a Zimbabwean in many ways it is also a reflection on the experiences of Zimbabweans in Britain These include the challenge of being far away from home the initial shock of finding their good English not understood experiences while undertaking further studies the challenge of an environment characterised by persistent negative headlines about Zimbabwe and its president Robert Mugabe and the challenge of British social and cultural values The book also opens the reader's eyes to how having come to Britain hoping to return to Zimbabwe as a high flying academic to teach in the Major Seminary or any one of Zimbabwe's universities Fr Dzadagu instead ended up leaving priesthood Imperial Investments Katja

Uusihakala, 2025-04-01 This book examines the legacy of a British child migration scheme that relocated British children to Southern Rhodesia between 1946 and 1962 with the aim of populating the colony with fresh white stock The selected children were resettled at Rhodesia Fairbridge Memorial College a boarding school established in a disused RAF airbase outside the town of Bulawayo This social engineering project sought to rescue children from what were predicted as undesirable futures in Britain and offer them a better life with prospects of social advancement Yet beyond individual salvation the scheme emigrated the children with the intention that they would help sustain the racially segregated colonial order Building on long term ethnographic research with former Rhodesian child migrants now living in the UK South Africa Australia and New Zealand this book delves into the children's unique experiences of migration displacement and resettlement By highlighting these enduring emotional social and political repercussions the author critically addresses how colonial histories matter in the present Through the lens of former child migrants whose kin relations were ruptured who were disciplined into silence and suppression and who have seen scant public recognition of their past this book sheds light on the formation of memory through its gaps and silences It contributes to our understanding of memory in relation to forced migration and displaced communities Re-imagining Indigenous Knowledge and Practices in 21st Century Africa Tenson M. Muyambo, Anniegrace M. Hlatywayo, Pindai M. Sithole, Munyaradzi Mawere, 2022-01-13 This book is on the re imagination of Indigenous Knowledge Systems IKS and practices in 21st century Africa Framed from an anti colonial perspective the book critically interrogates epistemological erasures and injustices meted against African IKS and practices. It magnifies the different contexts where African IKS were and continue to be used effectively for collective and personal benefit. Beyond the legitimate frustration and disheartenment expressed by the contributors to this volume over the systematic colonial efforts to render inferior and delegitimize African systems of knowing and knowledge production, the book makes an important contribution to the quest to correct misconceptions and misrepresentations by Eurocentric thinkers and practitioners about African indigenous knowledges. The book makes an informed claim that the future and vibrancy of African indigenous knowledge and practices lie in how well scholars of knowledge studies and decoloniality in and on Africa are able to join hands in articulating, debating, and fronting their vitality and relevance in varied real-life situations. More importantly, the book provides a reinvigorated overview and nuanced analyses of the important role and continued relevance of African IKS and practices in the understanding, interpreting, and tackling of the social unfoldings of everyday life and dynamism. Without romanticising African IKS and practices, the book provides added insights and pointers on policy and trends. It is an important addition to critical debates on knowledge studies across fields. The People's Right to the Novel Eleni Coundouriotis, 2014-09-15. This study offers a literary history of the war novel in Africa. Coundouriotis argues that this genre aimed more specifically at African readers than the continent's better-known bildungsroman tradition. Nevertheless, it makes an important intervention in global understandings of human rights. The African war novel lies at the convergence of two sensibilities it encounters in European traditions: the naturalist aesthetic and the discourse of humanitarianism, whether in the form of sentimentalism or of human rights law. Both these sensibilities are present in culturally hybrid forms in the African war novel, reflecting its syncretism as a narrative practice engaged with the colonial and postcolonial history of the continent. The war novel, Coundouriotis argues, stakes claims to collective rights that contrast with the individualism of the bildungsroman tradition. The genre is a form of people's history that participates in a political struggle for the rights of the dispossessed. Historical Dictionary of Women in Sub-Saharan Africa Kathleen Sheldon, 2016-03-04. African women's history is a vast topic that embraces a wide variety of societies in over 50 countries with different geographies, social customs, religions, and historical situations. Africa is a predominantly agricultural continent, and a major factor in African agriculture is the central role of women as farmers. It is estimated that between 65 and 80 percent of African women are engaged in cultivating food for their families, and in the past that percentage was likely even higher. Thus, one common thread across much of the continent is women's daily work in their family plot. This second edition of Historical Dictionary of Women in Sub-Saharan Africa contains a chronology, an introduction, appendixes, and an extensive bibliography. The dictionary section has over 700 cross-referenced entries on individual African women in history, politics, religion, and the arts; on important events, organizations, and publications; and on topics important to women in general: marriage, fertility, employment, and to African women in particular: market women, child marriage, queen mothers. This book is an excellent access point for students.

Wendland,2014-04-08 Bible translation theory and practice rightly tend to focus on the actual text of Scripture But many diverse yet interrelated contextual factors also play an important part in the implementation of a successful translation program The aim of this coursebook is to explore in varying degrees of detail a wide range of these crucial situational variables and potential influences using a multidisciplinary approach to the task Thus in order to expand and enrich the field of vision a progressive study of this complex process of intercultural interlinguistic communication is carried out according to a set of overlapping sociocultural organizational and situational cognitive orientations These contextual factors provide a broader frame of reference for analyzing interpreting and communicating the original Scriptures in a completely new contemporary setting of transmission and reception The three dimensions are then applied in a practical way to explore the dramatic throne room vision of the Apostle John Revelation 4 5 with reference to both the original Greek text and also a modern dynamic translation in Chewa a southeastern Bantu language of Africa A variety of exercises and assignments to stimulate critical and creative reflection as well as to illustrate the theoretical development of Contextual Frames of Reference is provided every step of the way Not only is translation per se discussed but the teaching and evaluation of translated texts and versions are also considered from several points of view in the final three chapters An Appendix offers a foundational essay by Professor Lourens de Vries on the subject of primary orality and the influence of this vital factor in the crosscultural communication of the Bible Teacher in New Africa ,1970
