

Essay #1: Finding Common Ground

Diving into an argument is very difficult to do. Imagine you are invited to a cocktail party and you arrive 30 minutes late. You walk into the ballroom and there are already 50 people there. There are numerous conversations going on; some of which have been going on for half an hour. You randomly pick out a group of 4 people to approach and socialize by getting involved with their conversation. You walk up, introduce yourself, and then listen in to what they are talking about. It takes time to get glued into the conversation so that you can contribute. This situation is analogous to writing our first essay, Finding Common Ground. Over the course of WRIT 112, you'll develop the reading, writing, and research skills to write mature, researched papers. But the first step is to know how to get involved in a researched topic.

Write an essay analyzing at least two essays/TED Talks taking different positions on an issue. You may also draw on other sources for background information or context. Your purpose is to analyze at least two essays/TED Talks to understand their authors' main points of disagreement and to suggest ways to identify points of agreement and build common ground based on shared values, concerns, needs, and interests, as well as to identify points of disagreement and different perspectives. To do this, you'll use the essays posted to the course web site under "Happiness and its Discontents" and the TED Talks from the syllabus.

Criteria you'll be graded on

An informative introduction to the issue and opposing positions

- A paragraph or so laying out the idea of happiness as you, a culture, or someone else understands it. Begin with a quote, a surprising fact, a startling statistic, or a mini story.
- A paragraph or so briefly describing the articles on happiness that you'll be using, focusing on their main ideas and/or theoretical approaches to understanding happiness
- A thesis identifying areas of disagreement and areas of common ground

A probing analysis with properly synthesized sources

- Several paragraphs in which you argue to support your thesis's assertions
- Interesting and insightful discussion of the points of disagreement and potential agreement
- Focus in on a few points rather than too many points
- Explain in detail the points that are hard for readers to grasp
- Consider emphasizing the less obvious points of agreement
- Consider why the writers make a particular kind of argument rather than another kind of argument
- Consider how the writer's profession or biography could explain why a particular idea has so much persuasive power

Poverty in American Popular Culture Wylie Lenz, 2020-08-17 In 1964 President Lyndon Johnson declared an unconditional war on poverty in the form of sweeping federal programs to assist millions of Americans Two decades later President Reagan drastically cut such programs claiming that welfare encouraged dependency and famously quipping Some years ago the federal government declared war on poverty and poverty won These opposing policy positions and the ideologies informing them have been well studied Here the focus turns to the influence of popular art and entertainment on beliefs about poverty's causes and potential cures These new essays interrogate the representation of poverty in film television music photography painting illustration and other art forms from the late 19th century to the present They map when how and why producers of popular culture represent or ignore poverty and what assumptions their works make and encourage Ideas, Evidence, and Method Graciela De Pierris, 2015-04-30 Graciela De Pierris presents a novel interpretation of the relationship between skepticism and naturalism in Hume's epistemology and a new appraisal of Hume's place within early modern thought Whereas a dominant trend in recent Hume scholarship maintains that there are no skeptical arguments concerning causation and induction in Book I Part III of the Treatise Graciela De Pierris presents a detailed reading of the skeptical argument she finds there and how this argument initiates a train of skeptical reasoning that begins in Part III and culminates in Part IV This reasoning is framed by Hume's version of the modern theory of ideas developed by Descartes and Locke The skeptical implications of this theory however do not arise as in traditional interpretations of Hume's skepticism from the veil of perception They arise from Hume's elaboration of a presentational phenomenological model of ultimate evidence according to which there is always a justificatory gap between what is or has been immediately presented to the mind and any ideas that go beyond it This happens paradigmatically in the causal inductive inference and as De Pierris argues in demonstrative inference as well Yet in spite of his firm commitment to radical skepticism Hume also accepts the naturalistic standpoint of science and common life and he does so on the novel interpretation presented here because of an equally firm commitment to Newtonian science in general and the Newtonian inductive method in particular Hume defends the Newtonian method against the mechanical philosophy while simultaneously rejecting all attempts including those of the Newtonians to find a place for the supernatural within our understanding of nature
